A FIRST FOR STANFORD — The university's first stellar observatory is nearing completion, as the result of volunteer efforts spearheaded by students Michael Kast of Greenbrae and Nicholas B. Sultzoff of Corte Madera. The stilt-legged building at right houses a 16-inch reflecting telescope. The building at left contains lab and shop space, a library and other facilities.

THANKS TO TWO MARINITES

Stanford Gets An Observatory

By JEFF GREER

Stanford University is about to get its first astronomical observatory, due to the extra-curricular efforts of two Redwood High School graduates now students at Stanford.

In all its years, the famed institution never boasted an astronomy department, but it is establishing one to make use of the $45,000 observatory that Michael Kast and Nicholas B. Sultzoff created, with help from a wide range of individuals and industries.

"We've actually raised only $35,000 so far," explained Kast, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Kast of 270 Bretano Way, Greenbrae. "We're about $10,000 in the red. It worries me. I feel like I might have to be indentured after graduation."

The observatory itself is a futuristic-looking thing resembling a lunar lander perched next to a house. It's built on an oak-studded hilltop in a remote part of the Stanford campus.

The heart of the observatory is a 20-by-20-foot room perched on four towering piers and surrounded by a rotating dome. It houses a 16-inch reflector telescope, "and in a year or so we'll have a solar telescope" paired with it, Kast explained.

The telescope was financed through a $5,000 grant obtained from the National Science Foundation; it's mounted on a special, vibration-free base donated by North American Rockwell, a space industry. The firm had declared the base, valued at $25,000, as surplus, Kast said.

A conventional looking building alongside houses electronics shops, a library and other allied facilities. It's separated from the telescope structure to minimize vibrations that could ruin observation, Kast explained.

Neither of the students is an astronomy major. Kast is specializing in mechanical engineering, hoping some day to design devices to trap and use solar energy. Sultzoff, also 20, is a math major. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas M. Sultzoff of 64 Presidio Avenue, Corte Madera.

They became friends as classmates at Redwood High School. Kast already was an amateur astronomer, introduced to the fascinations of stargazing by John L. Richard, a seventh grade teacher at Adeline E. Kent School.

Richards encouraged his pupils to form an astronomy club, and young Kast made two telescopes of his own.

Kast rode his hobbyhorse through high school, and arrived at Stanford to discover there was no astronomy department, nor even an observatory. "The school seemed to feel that it should specialize in physics, and let Cal have" the astronomy prestige, Kast explained. His observatory project is nearing completion after three years. Kast is so involved that he barely took time out for Thanksgiving dinner with his family. His father, an engineer for Bechtel Corp., and mother both declared they were proud of his efforts, and didn't begrudge the competition.

"We hope to be able to get things pretty well finished during the Christmas vacation," Kast said, indicating he wouldn't be spending very much holiday time at home, either.

Asked if he might switch to professional astronomy because of his project, Kast declared, "No. I started this just because I wanted something to do outside of class — to keep me from getting bored."

Another Plane Is Lost

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. command today reported the loss of a Navy Corsair jet which crashed into the sea after making a bombing run against North Vietnam. It was the eighth American plane downed in combat in four days.

The pilot parachuted into the South China Sea and was rescued uninjured.

Earlier an American observation plane was shot down and a Vietnamese Air Force AC47 "Spooky" gunship crashed shortly after takeoff today in the Central Highlands, killing one crewman and injuring three.

In the ground war the South Vietnamese command reported only 55 Communist attacks throughout the country in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, the lowest number since Sept. 28. The attacks included the 13th consecutive day of shelling against South Vietnamese marine positions north of Quang Tri and heavy fighting in the Central Highlands, the Saigon region and the Mekong Delta.

Both sides have been reequipping in haste and stepping up the combat level in order to have as much equipment on hand and as much territory under control as possible in the event of an in-place cease-fire and accompanying freeze on new shipments of weapons.

The Navy jet that crashed Thursday night had earlier made an unsuccessful carrier landing attempt. The command did not disclose the name of the carrier. The 7th Fleet said Lt. Cmdr. Dave Edwards was returning from a combat mission over North Vietnam shortly after 10 p.m. in dark, misty weather and belly-landed on the deck. Military sources said his landing gear collapsed. The Navy said Edwards managed to fight his craft into the air again.

Edwards headed toward the U.S. air base at Da Nang but 30 miles short of his goal the plane went out of control and Edwards parachuted to safety. In the ground war, North Vietnamese gunners poured 1,530 rounds of mixed artillery and mortar fire into marine positions north of Quang Tri, 404 miles north of Saigon.

A U.S. O2 Skymaster observation plane was shot down Thursday near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. Another observation plane, an OV10 Bronco, crashed after takeoff from Da Nang Air Base Thursday, due to unknown causes. The pilots of both planes were rescued.

Nine waves of U.S. B52s bombed supply depots within 10 miles of the North Vietnamese port of Vinh, 164 miles south of Hanoi, with hundreds of tons of explosives. Three other formations of B52s hit targets in the North Vietnamese panhandle near the port of Dong Hoi. Fifteen waves of B52s carried out raids in South Vietnam, six of them at Communist troop concentrations within 40 miles of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese military command today reported only 55 Communist-initiated actions in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m., the smallest number in nearly two months. Twelve were ground battles, the rest were shelling attacks.

South Vietnamese militiamen called in artillery and air strikes against a Viet Cong unit 33 miles northeast of Saigon Thursday near Go Dau Ha district town, along the Cambodian border.

Dayan Rejects New Eye Offer

JERUSALEM (UPI) —Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who has worn an eye patch since losing his left eye in 1941, turned down an offer for a new eye Thursday.

Dayan and Judah David were in a question and answer session at the international convention of the World Council of Synagogues. David offered to donate his eye for a transplant, saying "He's my brother and he needs it more than I do." Dayan rejected the offer.

Nixon Takes Off To Go Shopping

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon conferred with George Romney and John Volpe today in connection with his Cabinet reshuffling plans, then put aside business for a family weekend trip to New York to see some shows and do some Christmas shopping.

The President met separately with Romney, his housing secretary who plans to leave soon —reportedly to organize a new citizen lobby organization—and Volpe, his transportation secretary who is expected to stay in the administration but possibly in a new job.

With only a session Monday with Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst left to complete a full round of talks over the past two weeks with all his top appointees, Nixon decided to take a pleasure trip to New York with wife Pat, both daughters and son-in-law Edward F. Cox.

The New York visit will last until Sunday, and was described by the White House as "private." The Nixons plan to see some Broadway shows, do some holiday shopping and visit friends. They will be staying at the Waldorf Astoria.

The President met with Romney and Volpe after returning late Thanksgiving day from Camp David where he spent 10 days seeing a steady stream of visitors from Washington. They were shuttled to the retreat by helicopter for talks on the extensive government reorganization Nixon plans in his second administration.

He will go back to Camp David Monday, the White House said.

Romney said in August he would be leaving the government to return to private life but said he expected to play a role in the next four years of the Nixon administration "in a private capacity." He is said to be organizing a group similar to Common Cause.

In addition to discussing changes in the organization of his department, Romney presumably recommended a successor to Nixon.

Volpe at one time was reported in line for a diplomatic post but recent word indicated he would stay in the Cabinet. He was reported desirous of remaining as transportation secretary but other sources said he might be shifted to another post.

The White House has said that several department heads may be moved laterally to head other departments. Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, for instance, was reliably reported to be in line for the post of Secretary of Defense which is being vacated by Melvin R. Laird who announced earlier that he would leave the government on inauguration day.

Laird said in a published interview Thursday that his successor at the Pentagon has already been picked. He declined, however, to say who it is.

Nixon ended a nine-day stay at his Camp David retreat in the western Maryland mountains Thursday night during which he has been mapping reorganization plans with two top level White House aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldemen.

A session Monday with Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, who has been out of the country, will wind up the sessions and he is expected to begin announcing the changes next week.

Laird Says He Knows Pentagon Successor, But Won't Say Who

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, who is leaving the administration in two months, says he knows the identity of his successor at the Pentagon but refuses to reveal who it is.

Administration sources, meanwhile, said Thursday they are "97 per cent sure" that the new defense chief will be HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson.

Laird, who was asked about his successor during an interview in the Washington Star-News, said he already knew who his replacement would be. But he declined to go beyond that.

The sources said that Richardson, former undersecretary of state, will take over for Laird.

Laird, 50, served 18 years in the House before being appointed secretary of defense four years ago. He announced months ago he would leave the administration at the end of President Nixon's first term, perhaps to return to politics in Wisconsin.

Commenting on other subjects, Laird said the Republican party needs to be restructured along a "moderate-centralist" line if it is to become the majority party.

"The party has to be in a position where it as a party is presenting this central position," he said. The alternative, he added, is "a lot of individuals running for office, and I'm not sure that's good for the future of this country."

Laird said that in the wake of the Nov. 7 elections "the restructuring and rebuilding of party organizations probably is one of the most important if not the major task which faces people interested in maintaining our system of government."

Laird, who said he has no interest in running for President in 1976, told reporters that he would like to be remembered during his term as defense secretary for "developing a means by which we disengaged (from the war) in Southeast Asia."

Holiday Wreckage Claims Four Lives

3 Die Near Strawberry; 4th Death At Route 17

A San Francisco man, walking in predawn darkness near Strawberry in the northbound traffic lanes of Highway 101, near the Tiburon turnoff, was killed today and took two other persons with him to their deaths.

The three fatalities followed by 16 hours another highway death in Marin, a 23-year-old Berkeley woman, Genevieve Smith, having perished yesterday after her car left the roadway and flipped over at the junction of Highways 17 and 101.

Killed this morning at about 5 o'clock were the pedestrian, Allen Stewart Taylor, 28; the driver of a car that struck him, Albert Wilson Lane Jr., 33, of 1595 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, and an unidentified woman riding with Lane.

The four deaths brought to 39 the number to have died thus far on Marin streets and highways, compared to 31 by this date last year.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Taylor, not long before he was hit while walking on the freeway, had driven his car into a metal guard rail on a service road near Seminary Drive. It was thought that he might have wandered onto the freeway, seeking help for his disabled car. But why that should be so —with several service stations closed, but located on the service road — was a mystery.

Lane's car hit Taylor in the middle traffic lane and then veered and crashed into a sign post alongside the freeway just south of the Tiburon turnoff. Lane and his passenger died on the spot.

According to Coroner's deputy Bill J. Thomas, Lane's companion appears to have been in her 20s, with sandy hair and blue eyes. The pedestrian, Taylor, was a student at San Francisco State University, Thomas reported.

The three bodies were taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley, where arrangements were pending today.

In yesterday's fatal accident, Miss Smith who taught school in Oakland, died when her car ran off the road near the junction of Highway 101 and Route 17 and flipped over.

According to the patrol, Miss Smith was driving onto Highway 101 when she looked back to check traffic and lost control of the car.

She died at Marin General Hospital two hours later of severe head injuries, according to Thomas.

She was a native of San Francisco and is survived by a sister from Alexandria, Va.

Peace Negotiators Hold An Unscheduled Meeting

PARIS (UPI) —U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger conferred for about one hour today with North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator in a meeting neither scheduled nor announced in advance because the two negotiators did not want it publicized.

Vietnamese Communist sources said the meeting was held at Kissinger's request. Neither side gave any details of the meeting.

In Washington, President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho would be meeting again Saturday in a continuation of their daily meetings that began Monday.

Ziegler said the usual procedure for announcing times for the meetings in advance was not followed for today's session because the negotiators did not want any publicity on it. Kissinger also called on French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann today, Ziegler said.

Earlier, both sides had said no meeting was scheduled today. It would have been the first hiatus in this latest round of negotiations, which began Monday in an effort to find an acceptable peace formula.

Newsman who trailed Kissinger said the meeting today took place in a villa owned by the North Vietnamese delegation and located two blocks from its mission in suburban Choisy le Roi.

The newsmen said Kissinger slipped out of the rear exit of the U.S. embassy residence in Paris, went to the villa and stayed about one hour.

As the negotiators left, a television network correspondent remarked to Kissinger: "It's getting harder and harder to find a place for a secret rendezvous, isn't it, Dr. Kissinger?"

Kissinger, he said, replied: "It certainly is."

Kissinger has been meeting with Tho and Xuan Thuy at suburban Gif Sur Yvette, 15 miles from Paris since Monday.

Earlier today, a Viet Cong spokesman said the continued support of South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu by the United States is blocking a peace settlement.

"We wonder if the United States really wants peace, since it keeps supporting Thieu, the Viet Cong spokesman said. "Thieu is opposed to peace.

There has been no change in our demands that Thieu must go."

Kissinger and the Hanoi envoys conferred Thursday for more than six hours, the most protracted session so far.

Thieu has sent three top diplomats to Paris since Kissinger's talks with North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho and Hanoi head negotiator Xuan Thuy started Monday. Thieu's special adviser, Nguyen Phu Duc, arrived Thursday morning and consulted with Kissinger in the evening.

"At present, the United States is intensifying the war and bombings and weapons deliveries to the puppet in Saigon, the Viet Cong spokesmen said.

"According to our information these weapons deliveries to the puppet in Saigon weapons deliveries are continuing."

The U.S. command in Saigon last week said the shipments were completed.

North Vietnamese officials, who announced the pause in the secret talks at suburban Gif Sur Yvette, indicated no date has been set for the next meeting.

Pet Food Makers Ordered To Back Up Advertising Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government announced today makers of pet foods were being ordered to back up advertising claims of their products.

Included is the dog food Alpo, which is widely advertised as constituting a complete and balanced diet, with all the vitamins and minerals needed by a dog.

Companies were given 60 days to provide documentation for their claims.

The FTC stressed that it is not suggesting they were guilty of any violations, saying it was simply gathering information as part of a continuing program to determine what substantiation exists for major advertising claims.

Typical pet food claims for which substantiation was demanded:

Allied Meals Inc., Chicago, that Wayne dog food has nearly 9 per cent more protein than other leading brands, is completely nutritious, and is good for a dog's stamina, growth and digestive system.

Campbell Soup Co., that Champion Valley Farms Recipe Dog Food is completely balanced.

That Friskies Puppy Food, made by Carnation Co., is a new formula puppy food with "total everything."

That Gainsburgers, made by General Foods Co., are "meaty."

That Nine Lives, a product of H.J. Hines Co., is nutritious.

That Alpo, made by Liggett and Myers, constitutes a complete and balanced diet with all the vitamins and minerals needed by a dog and is composed of meat and meat by-products only.

That Tabby canned cat food, a product of Thomas J. Lipton Inc., meets 100 per cent of a cat's daily nutritional needs.

That Kal Kan Cat Foods, made by Mars Inc., is naturally balanced for complete nutrition.

That Nabisco's Milk Bone Dog Biscuits effectively eliminate stains and tartar from dogs' teeth.

That Quaker Oats Ken-L Ration Cheese-Flavored Burger contains real cheese.

That Purina High Protein Dog Meal, made by Ralston Purina Co., contains a lot less water than canned dog food.

Ground Rules

HELSINKI (UPI) — Ambassadors from 34 Western nations met for 80 minutes today and conference sources said they moved toward agreement on how to conduct their consultations for setting out ground rules for a proposed all-European security conference.

The ambassadors scheduled another session later today to give the chairman, Richard Toettermann of Finland, a chance to sum up the progress made so far on procedural questions.

The sources said the delegations were not yet ready to move to the substantial issues.

New Arms Talks

GENEVA (UPI) — United States and Soviet negotiators held their second meeting of the new round of bilateral Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today at the U.S. mission.

SALT II, as the second phase of the negotiations is called, began Nov. 21. The meeting lasted 95 minutes.

This first round of SALT II is expected by officials to last until about Dec. 20. The two sides are concentrating on outlining priorities for concrete negotiations next year and at the moment are not engaged in substantive bargaining.

Lebanon Clash

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli troops patrolling inside Lebanon reported clashing today with a band of Arab guerrillas, the first action in Lebanon in 10 weeks.

The Israeli military command said one of its troops was wounded.

It reported several guerrillas were "hit."

The clash was the first reported on the Israeli-Lebanese frontier since the last Israeli raid into Lebanon on Sept. 16-17.

Flights Banned

NEW DELHI (UPI) — U.S. diplomats said today the Indian government has banned U.S. Military Airlift Command flights after 23 years despite American protests.

The action, they said, was taken last month.

Until the ban, C141 transport planes landed twice each week in New Delhi on round-the-world flights which carried U.S. military personnel, American diplomats on official business and diplomatic pouches and supplies for U.S. diplomatic missions.

A U.S. Embassy official said the Indian government had wanted to stop the flights for some time and took the opportunity to do it when U.S.-India relations turned sour.

Brandt Request

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Willy Brandt is taking the initiative in asking Washington to consult its European allies before making major decisions, government sources said today.

They said Brandt is likely to take this up with President Nixon if, as expected, Nixon makes a swing through western European capitals early in 1973.

West German officials said Brandt feels such closer consultation should cover not only North Atlantic Treaty Organization problems but also East-West relations, the Middle East and world trade.

They said Brandt signalled his intention yesterday in a speech to parliamentarians from 14 NATO member countries when he called for a closer "Atlantic dialogue."

Irish Warning

BELFAST (UPI) — A militant Protestant organization said today the majority non-Roman Catholic population will proclaim Northern Ireland independent unless Britain hands control of the province back to local politicians.

The warning coincided with a House of Commons vote in London clearing the way for a plebiscite in Northern Ireland to allow inhabitants there to decide their political future.

William Craig, leader of the Ulster Vanguard Movement, said the 50,000 members of his organization oppose the direct rule Britain established earlier this year to deal with Northern Ireland violence which has so far claimed 639 lives.

Airport Hassle

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI) — Business interests in the Grand Teton National Park want the local airport, the only commercial one in a national park, expanded so jet aircraft can fly into this rugged recreational area.

Environmental groups, however, are against the idea, saying a jet airport isn't needed. As a result, both groups are awaiting the release of a required environmental impact statement for the area.

Forecast Of More 'Hell' On Campus Solution To Soviet Drinking—More Bars

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The field director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) said Thursday night "there will be some hell" next week at Southern University in New Orleans, sister campus to Southern Baton Rouge, where two students died in campus violence last week.

Speaking to a rally of 200 blacks gathered on the steps of the state capitol, SCLC field director Joseph Hammond said the unrest would spread throughout the nation because of the deaths of the two students in disruptions last week. The school has been closed until Jan. 3.

"Bullets killed the body but they won't kill the spirit," he said. "We won't forget they murdered our brothers. They will face us Jan. 3 and come Monday there will be some hell at Southern University at New Orleans."

"There will be stuff going on all over the country until they indict the murderers."

The rally, which was sponsored by a group called "the concerned parents and interested citizens," came just hours after Denver Smith was buried in Morganza, La.

Smith and Leonard Brown were killed last week during a confrontation between students and police on the Southern campus. Both youths died of buckshot wounds to the head, but police officers have said they did not fire their weapons.

MOSCOW (UPI) — One of the Soviet Union's most orthodox groups has come up with a most unorthodox proposal to help fight the nation's battle against drunkenness.

Build more bars.

Moscow Komsomol, the newspaper voice of the Communist Youth League and training ground for future party members, made the suggestion Thursday after a tour of the capital's dives and sobering-up stations.

"If we increase the number of food stalls and beer bars," the newspaper said, "then the number of places like the Seven Steps will decrease. It can happen. Possibly a certain qualitative change will result and the whole atmosphere will improve."

The reason for mentioning the Seven Steps was the newspaper's report on a drinking place with that name, a strikingly realistic, rare—and sobering—look at what authorities openly acknowledge is the Soviet Union's number one social problem.

It said the problem starts in a place like the Seven Steps, a one-room basement bar near Lubyanka Prison, headquarters of the Soviet secret police, the KGB.

One recent day, the newspaper said, more than 100 men packed into the 15-foot-square, steaming, windowless room. They swilled draft pivo (beer) and spilled an equal amount down the front of their trousers onto their winter boots.

There were no tables, no chairs.

About 30 men stood in two lines leading to the wooden bar. A poster warned "ne kurite" (no smoking) but there was not enough oxygen to smoke and no one did.

In the corner, a group of vodka drinkers upended bottles of cut-rate "green dragon," then spilled tipsily out into the street.

Rebels Aboard Ships Are Being Discharged

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Navy is discharging nearly a quarter of the 123 black dissidents whose rebellion on the aircraft carrier USS Constellation along with other racial incidents on Navy ships in the Pacific brought on a congressional investigation.

A Navy spokesman revealed Thursday that 16 of the Constellation rebels have already been discharged from the Navy and said 13 more will be out within 10 days.

Some of the men were discharged under "early out" provisions for those near the end of their enlistments, some on the grounds of "personality conflict" for those unable to adjust to military life and others as conscientious objectors, a spokesman for the Pacific Fleet Air Force said.

Thirteen were given honorable discharges and three got general discharges "under honorable conditions," the Navy said.

All but one of the 123 dissidents have gone before captain's mast disciplinary hearings. Those not discharged were given "nonjudicial punishment" such as demotion, extra duty or payment of small fines.

The lone remaining sailor has not had his hearing because he is in the hands of city police on a drug charge.

The 123, complaining of racial discrimination in job assignments and performance ratings, staged an unprecedented walkout from the crew of the Constellation and refused their captain's order to return.

After a Thanksgiving Day recess, the House armed services subcommittee headed by Rep. Floyd V. Hicks, D-Wash., was to resume its hearings, tightly wrapped in secrecy, at North Island Naval Air Station, home base for the Constellation and the Kitty Hawk.

The Kitty Hawk was bound here from Pearl Harbor, where crewmen ignored orders not to talk to newsmen about a race riot aboard the carrier off Vietnam last month.

Fighting raged over the carrier for about 15 hours, sailors on shore leave told reporters. The Navy reported 46 men injured in the incident.

Crewmen told newsmen in Hawaii the trouble began ashore in the Philippines when a drunken white molested a group of blacks in a night club, and later "the whites hired a bunch of black belts (karate experts) to beat up blacks."

When the ship was back at sea, tensions rose because it was abruptly ordered to return to Vietnam, crewmen said, and a mess hall incident sparked a riot.

"Blacks began tearing through compartments and began pulling out whites and beating them up," one sailor said. "My friend was beaten to a pulp."

A Tradition Carried Out

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) — Lights illuminating 14 biblical scenes lighted up the prairie south of here Thursday night when Alice and Joe Morang opened their Christmas grotto for the eighth year.

It is estimated that 30,000 Montanans come to see the dioramas each year, and last year visitors from 27 nations viewed it.

Joe Morang builds the shelters for the dioramas and his wife sculpts the characters. Since last year they have added "The Last Supper."

THE PRICE OF TUNNELS THESE DAYS

METZ, France (UPI) — Dr. Dominique Richard is the proud owner of one used railroad tunnel today.

He paid $20,200 at an auction yesterday for the tunnel, which he said he plans to turn into a nuclear air raid shelter.

His chief rival at the auction was a farmer who said he wanted the tunnel as a place to grow mushrooms. The tunnel came on the market after the government closed a railway line.

Tax Bill Lacks Only One Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1.1 billion property tax relief-school finance bill lacks one vote for Senate passage, but four senators previously opposed to it indicate they may possibly vote for the measure next week.

Before a two-house conference committee hammered out a modified version of the $1.1 billion proposal, the Senate on two occasions rejected the measure.

In its most recent defeat, the measure backed by Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, fell short of approval in the Senate by only two votes.

Supporters say that under the bill a married homeowner earning $15,000 a year with two children would have his overall taxes reduced by $80 a year. The same person who rents would see his taxes increase by $9.

The main revenue feature of the measure would boost the sales tax from five to six cents on the dollar. Schools would receive an additional $332 million for educational programs.

The measure is not expected to encounter any difficulty in Assembly when it comes up for approval Monday or Tuesday. But the bill faces a showdown vote in the Senate as lawmakers rush to meet their scheduled Dec. 1 adjournment date.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, who once opposed the bill, has changed his position giving its supporters 26 of the necessary 27 votes in the upper house.

A United Press International poll of the other 13 senators besides Marks who voted "no" on the bill Nov. 9 showed eight still solidly against the measure.

Four said they were not firmly committed to voting "no" on the bill next week. They are Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills; Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles; David Roberti, D-Los Angeles; and Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento.

The 13th, Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, could not be reached. But supporters of the bill said he was one of the senators they were concentrating their efforts on in hopes of convincing him to change his position.

One of the eight who said they would not vote for the bill, Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, declared, "I still can't vote for a tax increase when the state has got a $700 million budget surplus."

The other "no" votes are Clark Bradley, R-San Jose; James R. Mills, D-San Diego; George Moscone, D-San Francisco; Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland; H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia; Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, and Howard Way, R-Exeter.

Dymally, one of the four senators who said he was not firmly committed against the measure, said "tremendous pressure" had been put on him to vote for the bill. He said state schools chief Wilson Riles and the superintendents of the Los Angeles and Oakland school districts had asked him to switch.

Dymally said he had told them "no" but said he might change his position by next week.

Roberti said the bill had been "improved" by amendments made by legislative negotiators but that he wanted to examine the measure more closely.

Beilenson said he wanted to confer with other senators who had previously voted "no" on the bill. And Rodda said he did not want to go on record as either opposing or favoring the measure.

Wilderness Area

MOOSE, Wyo. (UPI) — The National Park Service has recommended more than 100,000 acres from the western side of the Grand Teton National Park to Yellowstone National Park to be set aside as a natural wilderness area.

Reagan Is Seen As The Party's Saviour

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan said today the Republican party is "going downhill" in California and Gov. Ronald Reagan is the only one who can save it from disaster in 1974.

He can do this, the veteran lawmaker said in a candid interview, by playing a stronger party role and taking the lead in choosing the best GOP candidates for 1974.

Reagan soon must decide himself whether to run for the U.S. Senate, Monagan added, because if he does not enter the race other aspirants will need time to build a campaign.

"I'm not critical of the governor. But I do want to emphasize that he is the leader of the party in California," Monagan said. "He is the only one now who can move out in the forefront and help put together a winning ticket in 1974."

"He has got to decide — help decide — who are going to be the best and most attractive candidates and help them get in a position to run in 1974. You can't wait a year to do that. He ought to be sitting down now with all elements of the party and making some decisions."

Once these candidates are chosen, Monagan said, they should be helped in gaining public exposure, campaign manpower and financing.

"If it's done haphazardly," he said, "then by sheer numbers of registration the Democrats will beat us. We've got to be better — have better candidates, better organization, better programming — to beat the Democrats and just overcome the volume. And somebody has to do that."

Asked if this might not leave the party vulnerable to charges of machine politics, Monagan replied:

"If you're in the minority you have to do that. When we had 28 (Assembly) votes around here, geez, we blackjacked, banged, tied up, did everything we could to lock in those 28 guys because that's all we could do. We showed no mercy on that."

Armco Steel To Increase Prices

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UPI) —Armco Steel Corp. will raise prices on a variety of its steel mill products, including plate, structural, wire, bar, rod, tubular and semi-finished categories.

The price hikes, Armco said Thursday, will amount to about 1 per cent of the firm's total sales revenue and are within limits set last December by the Price Commission.

About 30 per cent of the firm's product mix will be affected. The higher prices will be reflected in shipments Jan. 1.

It Pays Off To Find Money

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —Two city water department employees who last year turned in $92,400 they found in a storm sewer have received rewards.

Louis Lagana, 57, and Cardell Williams, 41, agreed this week to awards of $12,500 each for turning in the 924 damaged $100 bills they found Nov. 22, 1971.

The two truck drivers at first believed they would receive the entire amount, but the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia claimed the money, linking it to a theft of $1.4 million in old bills destined for destruction in the bank's furnace.

Center For POWs Is Under Way

QUINCY, Mass. (UPI) —Preparations are under way to receive and treat American prisoners of war from Vietnam at the Chelsea Naval Hospital before Christmas, the Quincy Patriot Ledger reported Friday.

Capt. James M. Sanders, chief Naval officer at the Chelsea facility, told the newspaper that the preparations were being made as part of the overall "Egress-Recap program."

He said the hospital was constructing new facilities.

Wallace To Give Party His List

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Gov. George C. Wallace will have a list of nominees for the 25 "wild card" members of the Democratic National Committee to be chosen before his Dec. 9 meeting, his special representative said Friday.

Michael Griffin, an aide to the Alabama governor, said the list, which would bring the national committee up to its full membership of 303, will be submitted to chairman Jean Westwood next week.

Griffin said in a telephone interview that he had conferred with Mrs. Westwood and other party leaders since setting up a temporary office here in preparation for the Dec. 9 meeting of the national committee.

The aide to the Alabama governor said his mission was to seek representation in the party's national councils for Wallace Democrats, and that the governor was avoiding, at this time, the sizzling controversy over replacement of Mrs. Westwood. He said under the proper conditions Mrs. Westwood, who was the personal choice of defeated presidential nominee George S. McGovern, would be acceptable to the Wallace faction, as would Robert Strauss, the former party treasurer who is regarded as the candidate of the party's conservative wing to succeed Mrs. Westwood.

The 25 at-large national committee members will be elected by the 278 members already chosen and are supposed to provide a voice for Democrats who were left out in the reshuffling of the committee last summer. Griffin said he would submit a list of nominees for each category — elderly persons, ethnic representatives, labor spokesmen and others — to be given priority in choosing the 25 new members.

Griffin said there already was a small bloc of Wallace votes on the national committee, but emphasized that the Alabama governor did not expect to engage in any kind of floor fight in his effort to broaden the party's appeal.

Instead, he said, the effort would be to persuade the dominant McGovernites as well as other factions that the party will be unable to survive without giving the Democrats who back Wallace a proper voice in party affairs.

School Building Contract Award On Agenda

The Kentfield School District Board will be asked to award the contract for construction of the county school for the hearing handicapped to Page Construction Company at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School.

The company was low bidder at $240,660, for the school which will be built behind Adaline E. Kent School. Trustees will also be asked to adopt an environmental impact statement for the building.

Also on Monday's agenda is a review of results for Kentfield students in state testing and of the junior high school course of study.

General Plan Session Set

The Larkspur City Council and Planning Commission will hold a joint discussion on the countywide general plan on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

The city is in the process of up-dating its general plan, and on Monday the Planning Commission approved a general plan for the San Quentin Peninsula, which takes into account proposed residential development of up to 3,600 persons, and extensive commercial and recreational facilities.

The planning commission's regular meeting will follow at 9 o'clock, and action is slated on a proposal to expand the commission's membership from five to seven.

Inmate Slain After Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —An Ohio Penitentiary inmate who slipped away from a group of other honor prisoners attending church services outside the prison was shot to death Thursday by a policeman.

Charles A. Fulton, 25, sentenced to the penitentiary eight years ago for murder, was killed by a single shot to the neck during a struggle with patrolman Mike W. Readnour.

PEACE

The White House said Thursday night the negotiations would continue, but did not say when.

Thieu has rejected the basic clauses of the draft agreement on the grounds they would lead to a Communist takeover in South Vietnam. He demands a complete North Vietnamese military withdrawal and abandonment of plans to create a three-segment National Reconciliation Council after the cease-fire to hold new elections.

"Faced with these facts, we really wonder if the United States wants to end the war and re-establish peace in Vietnam," the Viet Cong official said.

The French Communist party newspaper Humanite, said today under a two-column front-page headline titled "Nixon's Dangerous Game" that the peace conference had hit snags over Kissinger's efforts to renegotiate some basic clauses of the draft accord.

Kissinger, the sources said, wanted the North Vietnamese to pull out their troops though the draft merely mentioned the fact that the problem of Vietnamese armies in South Vietnam would be settled by the Vietnamese parties themselves after the cease-fire.

Humanite said Kissinger also wanted to win permission for the Indonesians to send large numbers of troops to the South as part of the planned International Control Commission.

"In the event that Mr. Kissinger would persist on this road running counter to a correct peaceful settlement, that is one guaranteeing the right of self-determination to the South Vietnamese population, the Vietnamese would have no opportunity but to continue fighting," Humanite said.

Hijack Money To Cuban Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said today they have been informed by the Cuban government that the $2 million ransom paid to the three hijackers of a Southern Airways jet 13 days ago has been turned over to a Cuban court.

"Presumably, the money will be used as evidence in the trial of the hijackers," one source said, adding that he did not know what would become of the money afterward.

The hijackers will be tried on various charges, including extortion.

A REGULAR SHOWER OF GOLF BALLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Frank Eberhardt has good reason to frequently glance skyward while he's out in his yard.

Eberhardt says as many as 25 golf balls a day have been landing at his home near the third hole of the Bing Maloney Golf Course. He estimates that about 6,000 balls have landed on his house or in his yard since the home was built 10 years ago.

"There are a lot of duffers out there, I guess," he said.

He has complained to the city council about his plight, and city officials believe the problem can be solved by moving the third hole about 50 feet farther away.

Boy's Death Is Blamed On Patients

HONESDALE, Pa. (UPI) — Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings has ruled that a 15-year-old mongoloid boy was drowned by other retarded patients at the Ridgeview Home in Hawley last summer.

In a certificate filed with the state Wednesday, Jennings said that Louis Novak of Sharpsburg, Pa., was "held under water by several mentally retarded patients who had been instructed by the attendants to bathe him against his will by force."

At the time of Novak's death Aug. 20, Ridgeview was owned by Commonwealth Concerns of Malvern, Pa.

"I realize this contradicts what Commonwealth Concerns is alleging. They say he slipped in a bath tub," Jennings said.

Jennings said a contributing factor, listed on the death certificate, was a "lack of proper supervision."

He said an inquest would be held and criminal charges would be filed "if anyone was criminally responsible either by act or neglect."

State police and a special joint committee of the state legislature have been conducting an investigation of seven deaths at Ridgeview, which formerly was owned by John Reilly.

Reilly has been indicted for murder in the death of Frank Dickerson, 23, Chester, Pa., March 24, 1970, at Ridgeview, which then was named Hillcrest. The cause of Dickerson's death was listed as acute pneumonia.

The state police investigation also revealed 13 "suspicious" deaths occurring between 1959 and 1961 at another home for the retarded operated by Reilly in Scranton.

Damage In Crash Set At $12,000

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Damage has been estimated at $12,000 in a flaming collision that set fire to four parked cars and a truck.

The accident resulted from an early morning collision Thursday between a car and a refrigerator truck at the corner of Duboce and Valencia streets. The truck skidded into a parked car and the gasoline line ruptured, spilling some 50 gallons of fuel over four parked autos. Firemen doused the flaming vehicles with liquid foam to prevent the blaze from spreading.

Neither the truck driver, 27-year-old Michael Romano of Hayward, nor the driver of the car, Patricia Francis, 32, San Francisco, was hurt.

Peron Takes Tour Of Capital City

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Former President Juan D. Peron took a sight-seeing ride under police guard around the Argentine capital Thursday, his first look at the city after 17 years in exile. There were no incidents during the 30-minute outing.

Security also was strict around Peron's home. A sister-in-law, former world flyweight boxing champion Pascual Perez and 50 flower-carrying women admirers of his wife Isabel were all turned back at a police checkpoint 200 yards away.

FTC Plans To Challenge Three Firms On Illegality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today announced its intention to challenge "illegal interlocking directorates" between Alcoa, the nation's largest aluminum company, and two competitors, Kennecott Copper Corp. and Armco Steel Corp.

The FTC said it would issue separate complaints against the three firms. The complaints will also cite two officials, Russell DeYoung and John A. Mayer, as being directors of two of the three firms, the FTC said.

De Young is allegedly a director of Alcoa and Kennecott while Mayer allegedly is a director of Alcoa and Armco.

The proposed complaints, served under the FTC's consent order procedure, said that Alcoa and Armco are competitors because of the "interchangeability of aluminum and steel for certain uses, including industrial and commercial siding and roofing, items for cryogenic use and automobile bumpers and trim."

Alcoa and Kennecott are competitors, the FTC said, because of the "interchangeability of aluminum and copper for certain uses, including electrical conductors and heat exchanger components."

Alcoa had revenues in 1971 of approximately $1.5 billion, Kennecott $1.3 billion, and Armco $1.7 billion.

The FTC said the interlocking directorships violate federal laws which forbid any person to hold directorships in two competing companies where either one has capital, surplus and undivided profits aggregating more than $1 million.

Cranes Arrive At Texas Home

AUSTWELL, Tex. (UPI) — Most of the members of the world's largest flock of whooping cranes have arrived in their winter nesting along the Texas coast, but there are apparently a few stragglers.

Officials at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge said Thursday they have counted 51 cranes, including five young ones. Last year, there were 59, a record high since efforts were begun in 1938 to keep the birds from becoming extinct. There were 14 at the time.

Marie (My Friend Irma) Wilson Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Marie Wilson, the busty actress who was smart at being a dumb blonde and made the scatter-brained "My Friend Irma" a hit of the 1940s and 50s, died of cancer Thursday in the arms of her third husband. She was 56.

Miss Wilson "fought her battle with cancer for five years—quietly and with simple dignity," said her husband of 21 years, television producer-writer Robert Fallon.

Her health worsened in the past two years, he said, and she asked to be discharged from Mt. Sinai Hospital last week "so that she could die at home."

She specialized in portraying wide-eyed, well meaning, blonde bubbleheads, aided by her own little girl voice, kewpie doll face and 39-inch bust.

Off camera, she was quiet spoken and thoughtful, with a zest for learning and intellectual self improvement.

Born in Anaheim, Calif., she came to Hollywood at the age of 17, flunked a reading for L.B. Mayer at MGM and became a $75-a-week bit player at Warner Bros. in 1937.

Her break came in 1942 when she was signed to play Ken Murray's glamor foil, an idiotic blonde, in "Blackouts." The vaudeville production ran seven years. Miss Wilson appeared in 2,332 performances and perfected her command of the character that was to be her mainstay.

"She worked for five years every night, doing two shows on Saturday and three on Sunday, before she took a night off," recalled Murray, a lifelong friend, after her death. Murray said that on a recent visit he found her "very ill, but bright and cheerful as always."

In 1947, she was given the title role in the radio series "My Friend Irma," one of the

California's Top Teacher Named By Wilson Riles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Helen G. Tracy of Del Norte County has been named California's Teacher of the Year by state schools chief Wilson Riles.

Mrs. Tracy, 61, a resource teacher in the Del Norte County Unified School District, will represent the state in the national teacher of the year competition.

Riles said Mrs. Tracy, who immigrated from Turkey as a child, represents a "new brand of teaching."

"She acts as a roving ambassador of learning, carrying her specialties from class to class, along the backroads of the redwood forests, ultimately reaching the district's 4,000 students and 11 schools," Riles said Thursday in a prepared statement.

most popular shows of the late 1940s, and then starred in the television series of the same name from 1952 to 1954.

She played Irma Peterson, a lovable but hopelessly feather-brained secretary sharing an apartment with a long-suffering and more sophisticated roommate, nursing hopes that her boyfriend "Al," a shiftless sharpie, would someday marry her.

She played the role in two movies capitalizing on the popularity of the series, "My Friend Irma," and "My Friend Irma Goes West."

She teamed with her old vaudeville sidekick Murray in his television show, appeared in the movies "Girl in Every Port," "Never Wave at a Wave," and "Marry Me Again." She was active on the night club circuit until age overtook her, and even then

Ecuador Releases Seized Tunaboats

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Six San Diego, Calif.-based tuna-boats seized by Ecuador sailed for home after paying $444,562 in fines and taxes for fishing within this Latin American country's 200-mile territorial limit.

continued working as one of the voices behind the animated television cartoon series "Where's Huddles?"

She married Nicke Grinde, a director, in 1938, a union that ended in divorce, as did her second marriage, to actor Allen Nixon.

She married Fallon in 1951. She is also survived by her son Gregson, 17. Private memorial services were scheduled for Sunday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Hollywood.

Little Fish Used In Tests

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — The stickleback, a tiny fish that puts on a display of colors during mating season, is being used by San Mateo County to sample the discharged water from the sewage treatment plants.

About 30 of the silvery fish—from one to two inches long—are dumped into the effluent wastes for four days. If 90 per cent are still alive after that time, the sewage is considered safe. If they die, other tests of the water are made.

Sticklebacks that survive are usually given to the neighborhood children for their fish tanks.

Just Call Macy March Big Success

NEW YORK (UPI) — The annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade opened and closed to overwhelmingly favorable reviews Thursday, flawed only by demonstrators protesting the high cost of turkey and some children complaining about "frozen" feet.

Hundreds of thousands of youngsters and adults thronged the parade route marvelling at five-story-high balloons in the guise of Mickey Mouse, Smokey the Bear, Donald Duck and other favorites of children and the young at heart.

But the sub-freezing temperature which reached 30 at the height of the parade bothered some of the watchers sometimes 10-deep along the route from 77th to 34th streets.

"When is this parade gonna be finished?" asked furhatted John Wray, a recent immigrant from Jamaica. "My feet are frozen," the youngster said.

His lament was echoed by Joseph DePalma, 8, of Hoboken, N.J. who said "I'm freezing and I'm looking for my father." He said, however, he liked the parade particularly "the things that go up in the air."

A sour note was injected into the proceedings at 59th Street when about 30 persons, who said they were with Women United for Action, entered the line of march to protest inflated food prices.

One of the protesters, Louella Smith, carried a sign reading "Inflation—Peanut Butter, not Turkey."

The demonstrators declared "there are thousands of people who will have no Thanksgiving dinner today. They can't afford it and there are millions more who will feel the severe bite of this year's turkey dinner in next weeks' budget."

The protesters were asked to leave the parade at 46th street and did so without further fuss.

Otherwise things were on the joyful side. Even the sight of Donald Duck soaring along Broadway with a limp hand failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the spectators. Authorities explained the hand had caught in a tree branch and punctured just as the parade began. Donald, a veteran of Macy's parades will be retired.

Relations Opened By China, Jamaica

HONG KONG (UPI) — The New China News Agency (NCNA) has announced the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Jamaica.

NCNA said a joint communique on the establishment of Sino-Jamaican diplomatic ties was signed Nov. 21 in Ottawa by Yao Kuang, Chinese Ambassador to Canada, and V.C. Smith, High Commissioner for Jamaica to Canada.

'A LOT OF LOVE' IS ORDERED

MIAMI (UPI) — Owen Bennett is looking for a girl friend and "a lot of love" on orders from a judge.

Bennett, 20, was convicted of stealing a sailboat Sept. 23 because he wanted to go to South American and live off the land.

Psychiatrists found Bennett sane but "seriously detached" because of prolonged loneliness.

"The psychiatrists say you've been deprived of love and affection," said Criminal Court Judge Alfonso Sepe yesterday. "I'm going to require you to find yourself a girl friend. You need a lot of love and the best way to get that is from a girl friend."

Psychiatrists had said Bennett had never been close to any other members of his family and had never had a girl friend.

Kissinger Blocked Connally

BOSTON (UPI) — A political feud between Henry Kissinger and John Connally resulted in the presidential adviser blocking Connally's appointment as secretary of state, a professor writing a book about the former Texas governor said Thursday.

Professor Charles Ashman of University of Pacific said the feud began when Connally became Treasury secretary "and invaded Kissinger's sphere" as trusted presidential adviser.

The feud was kept quiet so it would not inhibit Connally's efforts to influence Democrats to vote for President Nixon "because Kissinger has been insulated from domestic political involvement until the end of the negotiations with Hanoi."

"Kissinger and Connally are poles apart personally and politically," said Ashman, founding director of the Public Affairs Institute at Pacific.

"If Connally should be named secretary of state—and I'm sure he won't be—Kissinger's departure will be abrupt," Ashman said.

Kissinger has "effectively blocked" Connally's appointment as secretary of state, Ashman said in an interview.

Rogers Hopeful Of Viet Peace Team Before Accord Is Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers is hopeful of completing plans for a 5,000-member international peacekeeping force in Vietnam before a cease-fire agreement is signed, according to State Department sources.

Some officials, however, cautioned Thursday that the supervisory troops may not be in place before the fighting actually comes to a halt.

The administration's concern over completion of the supervisory force framework was prompted, officials said, by the numerous violations reported in the Middle East when the cease-fire there went into effect two years ago. The violations during the first days were blamed on inadequate supervision.

Rogers, according to officials, believes the supervisory force in Vietnam can be consolidated before the cease-fire comes. But one official, asked if the force could actually be in operation simultaneous with the cease-fire, said, "I would have some reservations about that."

Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland, have agreed in principle to participate in the supervisory force. Each nation would supply 1,000 troops and 250 officers to police the cease-fire.

There had been some concern in the cases of Canada and Indonesia that criticism from North Vietnam might cause the countries to withdraw from the arrangement.

earlier this week to meet with President Suharto of Indonesia in Brussels. Rogers met with Canada's external affairs minister, Mitchell Sharp, in New York on Monday.

The State Department said both countries had "legitimate questions" which had to be answered before they would give their final support.

Charles W. Bray, a State Department spokesman, said: "The governments which are considering participating and are looking at the merits and demerits have the right to get a complete set of ground rules as available."

Chase Ends In Capture Of Convict

DADE CITY, Fla. (UPI) — Jerry Sanford, a maintenance worker for the State Transportation Department, was at home watching television with his family Thursday night when there was a knock on the door. The visitor was an escaped convict who forced Sanford to take him on a hair-raising drive.

The Pasco County sheriff's office said Joseph Severino, 26, had been chased earlier by officers who saw him driving recklessly but Severino managed to elude them.

A short time later he took Sanford, 31, hostage from his Zephyrhills home and forced him to drive his car north on Interstate 75.

Highway Patrolman J. W. Johnson spotted the car on the interstate and gave chase. Severino shot at the patrol cruiser.

Johnson rammed the car as it attempted to exit the interstate and shot Severino in the left shoulder.

Sanford grabbed Severino's gun when he dropped it and tossed it out the window. Severino then pulled a knife but was disarmed by Johnson.

"I was afraid all the time," said Sanford. "You just have to be there to know."

The sheriff's office said Severino had been serving time at the Zephyrhills Community Correctional Center for breaking and entering when he fled Sept. 1. It was not known where he had been since the escape.

Severino was being held under $70,000 bond here today.

Expansion Of NATO Seapowers Is Urged

BONN (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) today to expand its seapower frontiers into the South Atlantic and Indian Oceans and to speed up studies on forming a single NATO army.

At its final session, the NATO advisory body passed a series of military recommendations designed to strengthen the organization in advance of any East-West negotiations on troop reductions in Europe.

One recommendation concerning Soviet maritime forces urged NATO to give the organization's military commander authority to plan for the protection of Europe's shipping lines in the Indian Ocean and the South Atlantic, including surveillance and communications.

At present, NATO's southern sea frontier ends at the Tropic of Cancer off the coast of North Africa.

Two Are Dead, Three Wounded In Gang Shootout

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Two persons were killed and three others wounded Thanksgiving Day in a shootout which police said was part of a gang war for the control of narcotics.

The deaths of Harold Ursery, 23, and Ronnite Cannon, 21, both of Gary, brought to at least 25 the number of persons killed in the drug war during the past year, police said. The shootout occurred in front of the Zodiac Club on the West Side. Authorities said an argument between Ursery and another unidentified man, apparently over a drug sale, touched off the incident.

Police said at least five other persons were involved in the shooting, but fled on foot when two off-duty policemen arrived and also opened fire.

The recommendation was based on an assembly report which said a new Soviet threat to shipping in the southern seas had made that frontier "illogical."

The assembly's recommendations have no binding force upon NATO or its 15 member governments and Western diplomats said the new sea frontier proposal would draw opposition because it implies the need for NATO to cooperate with South Africa on naval logistics and communications.

Other recommendations urged NATO to reorganize its armies to present a stronger front to the Kremlin and expressed irritation that similar calls have been ignored in the past.

The assembly recommended NATO investigate the possibility of making North Atlantic defense more effective by the gradual integration of separate national armed services.

It described this possibility as "a matter of urgency" and said NATO's reaction to identical earlier recommendations was "disturbingly vague."

The assembly also urged NATO governments to reach common agreement on bargaining goals with the Soviets at prospective talks on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions.

MBFR in Europe. Preliminary talks on MBFR are expected early next year.

The session today was the final one for the six-day assembly, which is composed of 200 legislators representing 14 NATO nations.

Although it has no legal connection with NATO, the assembly's opinions carry political weight because the delegates represent the parliaments and congresses that vote funds for NATO's budget.

In all, the assembly passed six recommendations and one resolution concerning the strengthening of Western defense.

Crewmen Of Small Ship Are Rescued

MIAMI (UPI) — A passing tanker rescued all seven crewmen of a small inter-island freighter early today, 26 hours after it sank mysteriously and swiftly in the Gulf stream off the south Florida coast.

The seamen, all in good condition, were landed at Miami by a Coast Guard patrol boat which took them from the tanker at sea.

Speaking to newsmen, Capt. Haysmer Haylock of Honduras was unable to explain why his 115-foot container ship, the Tropic Ace, sank about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday about 25 to 27 miles east of the Fort Lauderdale coast.

"I was laying down and this guy came up and say, 'She's listing,'" Haylock said. "I don't know what happened. Maybe she had hole in ballast tanks."

The men clambered aboard a life boat and Haylock said the Tropic Ace sank in about 15 minutes.

The tanker, Texaco Mississippi, spotted the lifeboat and rescued its occupants about 1:30 a.m. today.

The Coast Guard said the Tropic Ace is a British-registered Bahamian vessel owned by William Ordmann, who also owns a Miami radiator company.

Tam Stamp Club Changes Locations

The Tamalpais Stamp Club will move its twice-a-month meetings from the downtown San Rafael Bank of Marin to the Northgate branch of the same bank, effective tonight.

The move was decided on because a larger meeting room is available at Northgate and growing attendance had made the downtown San Rafael room too small, said Marcus W. Took, president. The club meets at 8 p.m. on the second and fourth Fridays.

Computer Adds Your Name To Many Mailing Lists

By FLORENCE MUCKLEY
The Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Mass. — If you live in the United States, you're virtually certain to be on a mailing list. Most likely you're on 40 or 50 lists. The practice of renting out your name and address can put you on 50 more.

Even if you're a hermit, says one direct mail executive, and haven't had contact with the outside world for 25 years, you're probably on a list of hermits.

As the presidential and local political candidates added to the outpouring of unsolicited mail this fall, more and more people wonder: "How did my name and address get on that mailing list?"

Meanwhile, congressmen bent on curtailing the growing practice complain that direct-mail advertising is an invasion of privacy.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., have already filed bills. Senator Hatfield's would stop the sale of mailing lists. Representative Aspin's would curb telephone solicitation.

Some obvious ways names wind up on a mailing list include: newspaper and magazine subscriptions, listings in regular and classified telephone directories, customer lists, voter-registration rolls, motor-vehicle registration lists in some states, a club roster, or just the fact that you have purchased some article by mail. Writing in for that "free offer" may be just another gimmick to get your name and address.

But the two master keys to the accelerating $2.9 billion-a-year direct-mail business are the computer, and the renting, bartering, and selling of mailing lists.

The computer is able to draw a sharper and sharper profile of you — sometimes from merging two or more mailing lists which include different categories of information about you. It can make you an attractive target for more and more advertisers who can accurately match your receptivity to their product.

For example, one compiler of mailing lists pays manufacturers for the use of the warranty cards sent in by their customers. Computers classify the information as to the type of article purchased, the store where it was bought, the amount of money spent, the date the purchase was made, the area in which the customer lives, the buyer's sex, and, of course, his name and address.

The compiler markets the new mailing lists to other advertisers and also provides each manufacturer with a computer printout profile of his customers for future sales campaigns.

If you take out a subscription to a high-priced art magazine, you may shortly thereafter receive sales pitches from other publications catering to your cultural tastes and economic level, but usually not in direct competition with the art magazine. Almost all publications rent or exchange mailing lists with other advertisers.

Generally, the direct-mail business works like this: A company wanting to advertise its product or service to a particular consumer market hires a direct-mail advertising firm to map a campaign. The mailing house in turn engages a mailing-list broker — there are several hundred around the country — who is an expert on putting his hands on specialized mailing lists. These rosters are usually owned by list compilers. They are rented or bartered for a one-time use. In a few cases, they are sold.

A careful check keeps lists from being used more than once. This is done by including dummy names and addresses in the list. If the "planted" names receive more than one mailing, the compiler knows he is being cheated.

Almost all third-class mail is direct-mail advertising and it accounts for 23.6 per cent of all mail. It employs about a million people directly and is second only to television as the most used advertising medium.

Not only is the direct-mail business becoming more direct but also more personalized. Almost all American consumers are by now familiar with the promotional letters which sprinkle one's name, street address, and city or town within the body of the letter.

And more and more companies are using telephone solicitation along with their direct-mail campaigns. The trend is toward using direct mail as just a part of overall promotions which use many combinations of different media.

Senator Hatfield plans to reintroduce a bill in the next Congress aimed at prohibiting the sale of distribution of mailing lists, or information concerning the personal, financial, or private property holdings of individuals without their consent.

The bill is not expected to pass the Senate in its present all-encompassing form. But it is hoped by some advocates that at least the issue will get congressional hearings.

The Aspin bill would require telephone companies to ask their subscribers whether they want advertising contact by telephone. For those who say "no" the telephone company would put an asterisk or some other mark next to that individual's name in the telephone directory.

Direct-mail advertisers argue that their unsolicited mailings are not offensive and are not an invasion of privacy.

"You don't have to open the advertisement, you can drop it into the wastepaper basket or line a birdcage with it," says John Day, vice president of the Direct Mail Advertising Association, an organization of 1,600 companies.

Direct mail is much less an invasion of people's rights, asserts Daley, than the newspaper, magazine, or television set. "You might not like the ads or commercials, but they interrupt you anyway."

Chile's Farm Output Drops Under Allende

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chile's farm output has declined since President Salvador Allende was elected, the Agriculture Department said today.

The department's Economic Research Service said, "for the 1972 crop — the first one for which all production decisions were made during the Allende administration — productivity may be down sharply, based on preliminary data on area planted and forecasts of output."

"However, the causes of the decline cannot be clearly identified with changes introduced by the Allende government. Some crops have not recovered to productivity levels attained before the severe drought of 1969," it added.

Allende's reforms included expropriating large privately owned farms and turning them into large farm cooperatives, the report said. Allende's predecessor, Christian Democrat Eduardo Frei, emphasized parcelling expropriated land out to the workers in small plots.

Taking the years 1964-1965 as the base index of 100, the report said estimated crop productivity for 1972 is 107, down from 119 in 1971 and 120 in 1970. The year 1969 had a severe drought and the index dropped then to 102.

The report said cattle numbers "have decreased precipitously since late 1970. The sharp drop has been attributed to clandestine slaughter and to the smuggling of about 200,000 head into Argentina shortly after the election victory of President Allende."

It added that the United States is not likely to be taking up much of the export market created by the crop declines.

"The U.S. share of the growing Chilean market for foreign agricultural commodities has decreased, as has the value of U.S. agricultural exports to Chile," it said. "The political sympathies of the Allende government, coupled with its policy of trade diversification, make it unlikely that the United States will increase or even maintain its historical share of this expanding market for agricultural commodities."

Marin Planners Will Discuss Highway Project

The Marin County Planning Commission, meeting at 9 a.m. Monday at Civic Center, will discuss plans by the state for a multi-million dollar improvement project for Shoreline Highway.

The project, under fire from some West Marin residents, calls for widening portions of the highway and correcting traffic hazards between Tamalpais Valley and Stinson Beach.

Burch Bachtolb, deputy assistant in charge of design, and Jerry O'Shea, assistant district engineer for the state, are scheduled to outline the state project.

The commission also is expected to review the county's slope policy in Tamalpais Valley and consider development plans for a 89 unit townhouse and apartment project near the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

Colonel Is Cleared Of Viet Count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force has cleared Col. Jerome F. O'Malley, former inspector general of the 432nd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing in Thailand, of charges that he ordered illegal bombing strikes against North Vietnam and falsified reports to cover them up.

O'Malley was one of 24 officers and enlisted men charged Nov. 3 by Sgt. Lonnie Franks, the man who exposed the illegal raids last spring in a letter to Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa. Those charged by Franks also included Maj. Gen. John D. Lavelle, former commander of the 7th Air Force; the only two Air Force aces and a former prisoner-of-war.

The Air Force said the charges against O'Malley and the others had been reviewed and found lacking of any new information warranting courts martial. Lavelle already had lost two of his four stars and been virtually forced to retire.

O'Malley was vice wing commander of the 432nd, was the wing inspector general, and was also a pilot. As inspector general, he was responsible for spotting and reporting any violation of regulations.

Franks charged that O'Malley ordered fighter pilots escorting reconnaissance planes to attack North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile sites and anti-aircraft artillery emplacements even when there was no hostile fire. This would have violated regulations in effect at the time.

He also charged that O'Malley filed false reports saying the pilots had encouraged hostile fire and that he ordered other airmen to do the same.

Heavy Cairo Rain

CAIRO (UPI) — Heavy rains, a rarity in Cairo, continued for the second straight day today, halting traffic and causing blackouts.

Lumber Spokesman Claims Price Rules Being Abided

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A spokesman for a major lumber trade association has told Price Commission chairman C. Jackson Grayson most western lumber manufacturers are abiding by commission regulations.

H. A. Roberts, vice president of Western Wood Products Association, wrote Grayson taking exception to remarks attributed to Peter Carpenter, deputy director of the Price Commission, that 30 per cent of the wood products industry was violating the letter of spirit of the rules.

Roberts said uncontrolled prices for raw lumber from Canada and rising prices for federal timber were responsible for price increases.

"As for western manufacturers, we believe the great volume of shipments is in compliance with price regulations," Roberts wrote.

"The Price Commission appears to be concerned about price levels that, as far as manufacturers are concerned, may well be authorized within the control system. Some 25 per cent of this nation's lumber consumption has its origin in Canada. Prices for Canadian lumber are not controlled."

He also said, "Price Commission regulations themselves are such that raw material (logs) costs are exempt from price control."

This means that sales of federal timber have been offered at steadily increased prices throughout the freeze period."

DANCE OF PROTEST

An unidentified Indian does a dance atop Plymouth Rock at Plymouth, Mass., during a protest by 12 New England tribes yesterday. Some 200 Indians took part in the demonstration protesting the treatment of Indians by the white man. The protesters boarded the Mayflower II and took down the British Union Jack, replacing it with their own flag.

Court-Martial Decision Looms

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (UPI) — The crew of the carrier USS Kitty Hawk sat down together for Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings while the ship headed home to San Diego and a decision on whether the Navy will court-martial 21 sailors as a result of a bloody race riot.

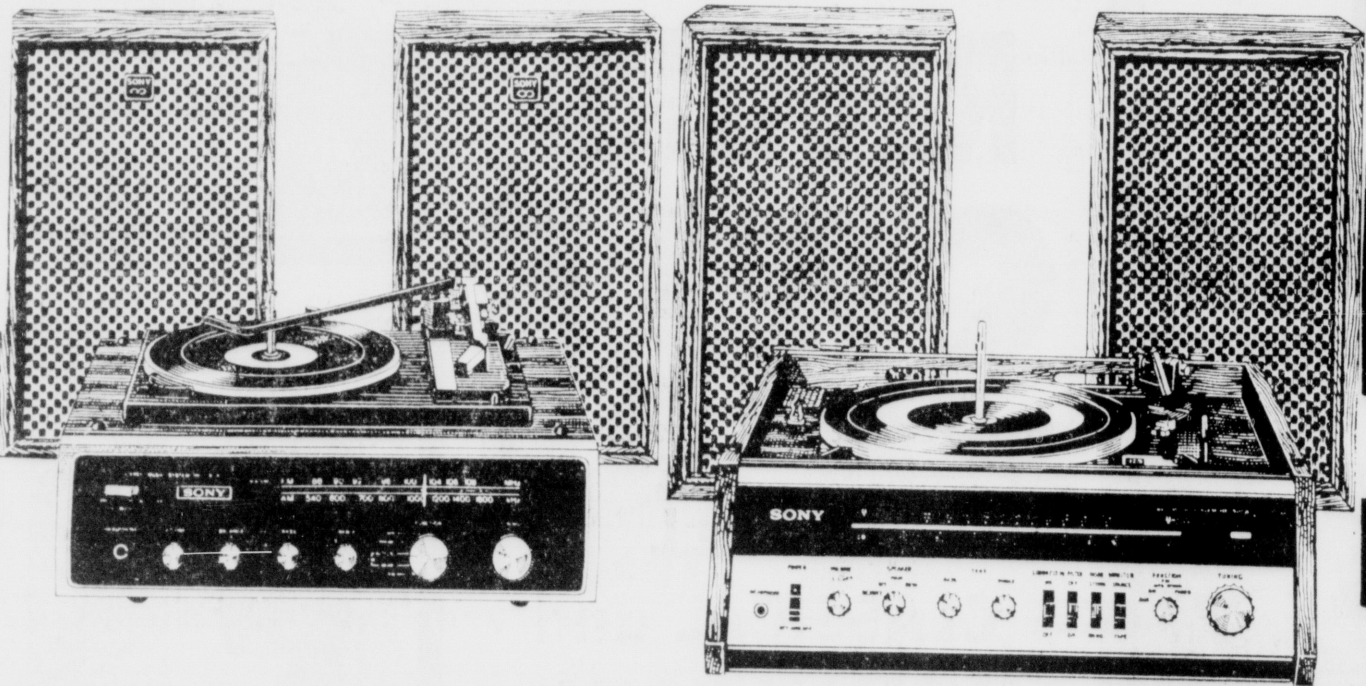

The extent of the race riot aboard the ship off Vietnam last month was disclosed by sailors who ignored orders not to talk about the incident during a brief stopover here.

Forty-six persons were injured in fighting that involved about 100 men over 15 hours. It was followed soon after by racial disturbances aboard other 7th Fleet ships in the Pacific.

CAN WE RETURN TO THE MIDDLE AGES?

The craft guilds were basic to the economy of medieval Europe. And one group of Marin artisans believes there is a place for the guild system today. These are the artisans of the Baulines Craftsman's Guild, complete to master workmen and their apprentice-students. How this vestige of the Middle Ages functions today, and why it was adopted to modern times, are the subjects of a special feature story in this week's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine.

A NICKEL A TICKET

With parking tickets costing up to $20 in some cities, Ashland, Ohio, parking violators pay only 5 cents. When metermaids find a violation they feed the meter and leave an envelope asking the driver to return the nickel to the chamber of commerce, which provides the nickels in the first place. It's hard to tell here if Carl Barth is happier about the small cost or watching metermaid Linda Hickey at work.

20-Year-Old Brezhnev Expected To Visit Nixon In Spring

Camper Slain In His Tent

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Michael F. Mattice, 20, Sunnyvale, was shot to death Thanksgiving Day while asleep in a bright orange tent in the Santa Cruz mountains.

Santa Cruz County sheriff's investigators questioned Gary Roy Lawrence, 20, and Danny Richard McKenna, 19, both of Saratoga, who admitted target practicing in the area. The two youths, held by Santa Clara county authorities, denied shooting at the tent.

Mattice had been camping with Sheryl Lynn Paulson, 18, Sunnyvale, who was walking a trail near the campsite and heard shots. She met two young men, later identified as Lawrence and McKenna, and warned them about the tent.

But when Miss Paulson returned to the tent, it was found to have six bullet holes. Mattice was shot three times. Miss Paulson walked to a highway, and flagged a motorist to drive her to a telephone. En route they noticed a car pulled off the road and reported the license number. The license number led to the arrests of the two youths.

Another Plane Hunt In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Another aerial search is on over about the same Anchorage-Juneau route in which a plane carrying House Majority Leader Hale Boggs disappeared Oct. 16.

The search is for a Comanche piloted by John Bratton of Sepulveda, Calif., and a woman believed to be his wife.

The Bratton plane took off late Wednesday afternoon but never arrived at Annette Island, the airport for Ketchikan.

A World First

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finland formally recognized both East and West Germany today, the first major country in the world to do so. The foreign ministry said the decision was taken at a regular cabinet meeting.

Norway's Sea 'Monster' Causes Case Of Jitters

OSLO (UPI) — Aircraft and navy vessels using depth charges, radar and at least one anti-submarine missile are searching a Norwegian fjord looking for what some witnesses insist is a foreign sub lurking there.

Whatever the object is, it has touched off a case of security jitters.

Defense chief Gen. H.F. Zeiner-Gundersen said navy commanders have received orders to use their own judgement in attacking any object they find. Two British helicopters joined the search at one point and an arsenal of modern weaponry and equipment was committed to the hunt.

The mystery object first appeared 13 days ago and witnesses reported two more sightings Thursday, with one man telling authorities he spotted a "greenish yellow light" in the fjord, located in western Norway and linked to a 124-mile-long channel big enough for submarines.

Another witness told police Thursday a "dark object" surfaced for about seven minutes then disappeared again.

But military officials said the long winter darkness in the area make it possible for submarines—if that is what it is—to escape visual spotting for much of the time.

Norwegian military spokesmen said radar and sonar soundings made contact with "something," but they stopped short of calling it a submarine. After one such contact Wednesday, the military said, a frigate launched several depth charges and fired one anti-submarine missile. Later, a communique said the object was not a submarine.

It also said two British helicopters taking part in the hunt left Thursday for their home base and added that the search will continue with Norwegian ships and planes.

Why a submarine would spend any time in the fjord was another mystery although some newspapers guessed it was mapping the 3,900-foot deep channel or even installing underwater navigational equipment for future use.

Norway is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and only recently the site of some of the organization's largest war games.

College Seminars For Parents Are Scheduled

College of Marin counselors will conduct seminars with parents of students several evenings, starting next week, in the Student Services Building on the Kentfield campus.

The small group meetings will be held at 7:45 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and Dec. 5, 6, and 7.

Parents and counselors will discuss such concerns as motivation, career choice, aptitudes, testing and the Independent Study Center.

Parents interested in attending should phone Kathy Beck at the college ahead of time, the college said.

Parking in student lots will be made available to parents.

Koreans Deport American Civilian

SEOUL (UPI) — Authorities deported a 21-year-old U.S. civilian Thursday on grounds he sold narcotics to American servicemen stationed in the country. He was identified as William P. Stacy, but authorities did not disclose his home address.

He was the first foreigner deported under a social cleanup campaign now under way by orders of President Park Chung-hee. Officials said Stacy entered South Korea from Japan last May.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Consistency Is The Key Word San Rafael's La Petite Auberge

Being all things to all people is a good trick if you can do it. No restaurant can.

About the best it can do is satisfy a variety of dining-out-ers or make a strong appeal to a certain group. Now and then one manages to accomplish both to a marked degree. There is little chance of it becoming anything but a success.

There are many types of people who enjoy eating at La Petite Auberge, downtown San Rafael's bustling little brick-housed French dinery at Fourth and Tamalpais. But its strong local appeal is probably to those who like something that suggests elegance - but not too much elegance; a chance that they will meet people dining there whom they know; more than a mere chance that they will get a fine meal at a fair price; but who are not looking for discount rates.

And quite important for a Marin restaurant's success, La Petite has managed to capture a remarkable out-of-country following of diners who patronize it for almost the same reasons.

The fact that it is small, almost intimate, keeps away the snobs. I don't recall ever seeing any there, but if there were they were able to conceal their identity in La Petite's engaging cosmopolitan atmosphere. Perhaps they even became converted to ordinary human beings in spite of themselves.

Three men run this fascinating place - all Frenchmen - Paul Devaux, Pierre Grigaut and Roger Poli. They run it well. It one takes time off the other two make out quite well between them. This is nice for the customers, who always see a boss around and find no evidence of anything different in the operation, no matter when they go there.

Making the rounds of restaurants the way I do, with some visits often spaced at long intervals, this is always gratifying to observe. It shows consistency.

And speaking of consistency and things that last, on a recent visit to Le Petite I learned that accordionist Ken Judnick has now been there seven years. This is well up in the record class for restaurant entertainers. I imagine that by now he must know just about every regular customer's favorite selection.

That glittering instrument he plays, by the way, may look brand new, but it isn't. After 17 years of ownership he couldn't bear to give it up, so he just had it overhauled and its face lifted.

JUANITA MUSSON
Now nationally-known

MARIN COUNTY's former tempestuous restaurateur Juanita Musson has now received national publicity.

She is featured in the latest Playboy magazine - which may lead to as many tourists visiting her Fetters Hot Springs resort in Sonoma County as customarily look up Jack London's family Wolf House in nearby Glen Ellen.

At least it will be one more reason for them to take in the sights of the Valley of the Moon so they can tell the folks back home they saw the mummified Juanita with Bonita, the squirrel monkey curled around her neck, and Beauregarde, the larger woolly monkey who acts as her co-host.

There are many such meretricious subjects and other conversation pieces to give color to Juanita's rambling six acres - including her expressive and spiced vocabulary. But it would be wrong to assume that these are the only attractions. They are the trappings and window decorations for which she is known. The fact is, she has always been a very good cook and as fussy about her food output as any temperamental chef.

No such item as cordon bleu, scampi Nicoise, tournedos saute au champignons or ris de veau financiere grace her menu (I can just hear her language if you were to ask for them). But you can get downright good steaks or prime rib for dinner and a superb buffet lunch that will keep you busy as long as you want to linger in the nicely decorated dining room. It's a comfortable place, easy to like.

SPEAKING OF THE VALLEY OF THE MOON, did you know that another former Sausalito restaurateur, Bernard Connolly, who used to be chef at Rico's, now has his own place in the valley.

He calls it Bernard's and it is located on the Sonoma Highway across from the Sierra National Bank in Boyes Hot Springs, not far from Juanita's. It's open seven days a week for lunches, dinners and cocktails.

Marin Dining And Wining

12 Independent-Journal, Friday, November 24, 1972

Bernard has quite a background in food. He was graduated from the Cordon Bleu School in Paris and offers Continental cuisine. Dinner hours are from 6 to 10 p.m.

AND IN EL VERANO, where Juanita used to be before her place was burned down, Little Switzerland, at the corner of Riverside Drive and Grove, served dinners with live international music for dancing on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

IT IS ALMOST that time of the year with Tommie Cox celebrates his umteenth anniversary in business.

Wednesday night Dec. 6 is the date. Hours are from 5 p.m. until the food runs out - so if you're headed for Tiburon Tommie's on Main Street, Tiburon, be guided accordingly. Last year everything was gone by 11 p.m. If you can't understand how his customers ate it all up - remember, there were about 1,000 of them there.

Tommie says this is his 15th anniversary, but if you ask me he's lost track of soe of the years. I make it about his 18th.

THE NEW House of Kebab is now open and into its stride at 4200 Redwood Highway (on the east service road) in the Northgate area of San Rafael. Authentic Armenian dishes are the attraction offered by John Ohanian and Bedros Maronian.

Breakfasts are not being served as originally planned, but the restaurant opens at 9 a.m. for coffee drinkers and keeps going until 9 p.m. with lunches and dinners. Open days are Mondays through Saturdays.

OUT IN POINT REYES STATION, Country Joe McDonald and Banana and the Bunch will be presented in concert on Dec. 2 at 8:30 p.m. in the Community Center.

If bought in advance, tickets are $2 each and are on sale at Punta de los Reyes Bookstore in Point Reyes; Amazing Grace Music Store, San Anselmo; Prune Music in Mill Valley; and at Cotati Company No. 3 in Cotati. Otherwise, at the door price is $2.50.

THE JOY OF COOKING is playing at the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile this Thanksgiving weekend through Sunday.

Turkey Fuss Ends In Death

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Barbara Mills, 50, was stabbed to death at a friend's home during an argument over a portion of turkey at Thanksgiving dinner. Police said Mrs. Mills and other members of the group were seated at the dinner table when the brawl began over a slice of white meat from the turkey.

They said Mrs. Mills pulled out a razor blade and began slashing at a man at the table. The man stabbed her in the chest with a knife.

The man, whose name was not made public by police, was treated at a hospital for facial cuts from the razor blade and was taken into custody.

Display At Library

Water colors by Mrs. John J. Canoles of Portola Valley will be on display at the San Rafael City Library through Dec. 4, according to a library spokesman. She is the wife of the former pastor of First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

Is Too Much Schooling Being Offered

By LEO GRULIOW
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

MOSCOW — Vanya is a child of the age of science.

He has thrilled to "The Taming of the Flame," a new movie about the scientists whose rockets sent cosmonauts into outer space. Vanya is attending a Moscow secondary school and hopes to enter a higher educational institution and become a scientist.

What if he doesn't make it in the intense competition for admission? Will he settle for a factory job?

Vanya isn't the only one troubled by that question. Georgy Kulagin, director of the Sverdlov Machine Tool Plant in Leningrad, complained in Pravda last year that too many school graduates spurn blue-collar jobs and want to go to the university.

Sergei Neprintsev, chief engineer of the Red Proletarian Instrument Plant in Moscow, told a reporter of Young Communist magazine recently that there is too much talk about educated youngsters repelled by uninteresting work and too little about the shortage of skilled labor.

"We all want our children to have a good education and a career in a profession," Neprintsev said. His own mother, who was illiterate, told him to study or else he'd be a janitor.

But things have gone too far, he declared. "A real education boom!" he said. "All of us, forward march, into the institutes and laboratories! What kind of person comes of this, what is he good for? ... It's all the result of exaggerated notions about the possibilities open to the school graduate and the graduate's own abilities."

Ten-year schooling, as opposed to the more common eight-year schooling, used to be regarded as the track to college. But Soviet higher educational institutions this year had room for fewer than one-fourth of the 3.5 million were graduated from the tenth grade. And this discrepancy in numbers will grow.

Three-fourths of all those now in elementary school are scheduled to receive 10 years of education before they are through. The number of openings in higher education is not planned to increase proportionately. There just isn't that much need for higher specialists, according to Education Minister Mikhail A. Prokofiev.

Will the future graduates of 10-year schools be content to work on conveyor belts? What incentives should the factory offer them in its labor pinch?

When the Soviet Union faces a problem like that, nowadays it turns to the sociologists.

Soviet sociology is less than a decade old. In 1960 the Young Communist League daily, Komсомolskaya Pravda, established a public-opinion institute that conducted crude polls. The newspaper invited readers to answer questionnaires, then tabulated the random responses — and sometimes published criticisms of those individual answers that did not meet with its approval.

Meantime, Poland and other East European countries had developed fairly sophisticated social research and opinion polling. By the autumn of 1962 the Soviet Academy of Sciences adopted a resolution on the importance of applied social research.

The country lacked trained sociologists, but soon factories were setting up research groups to study matters such as labor turnover. The party backed these studies.

By the end of the 1960s, scholars had formed an institute of applied social science and a sociological association. Two "cities of science," Leningrad and Novosibirsk, led the way in establishing research centers. The country now has about 50, manned by some 2,000 "social researchers."

They study such problems as alcoholism, crime, the use of leisure time, attitudes on birth control, attitudes on nationalities, the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of atheist propaganda, the educational advantages of urban over rural families, migration and causes of job dissatisfaction.

Decision-making bodies, including party and government agencies, used to assign party committees or members to draw up the agenda and background materials for a discussion of a current problem. Now they frequently call on the "applied social research scientists" to prepare the information on which to base policy.

A woman researcher at an aviation institute in the city of Ufa started the recent discussion of Vanya's problem by pointing out that the flow of villagers and housewives into the factories had dropped to a trickle, and young people provided the only source of further manpower for expanding Soviet industry.

But they resist the lure of pay, she said, being more interested in education, advancement, and stimulating work.

And it was a waste of their 10-year schooling to put them on the assembly line. Her solution was to reduce the amount of unskilled labor in industry by increasing mechanization and automation.

Her article in Young Communist brought objections from other sociologists. They pointed out that half the workers in Soviet industry and 80 per cent of the farmers still labored at unmechanized jobs.

What was more, they said, mechanization meant conveyor belts that entailed even more monotonous drudgery than at present. Industry in America, Sweden, and other countries has encountered the same problem of keeping young/workers satisfied on the assembly line.

One sociologist proposed "social incentives" for monotonous factory work — a shorter workday, longer vacations, higher priorities in housing, and better leisure facilities, such as factory clubs. But an industrial executive objected that the operators and other skilled help would be drawn off into the ranks of assembly workers.

Two sociologists who had studied conditions at several factories proposed job rotation, work breaks, and assembly-line music.

One innovation they reported was a system of breaking down work on the conveyor into operations by a series of independent brigades, which were allowed to function at individual work benches, to rotate tasks among the brigade members, and to be paid at unlimited piece rates.

This system brought higher productivity and less complaint of monotony, but required a backlog of parts at each brigade so that the individual efforts of the brigades, rather than the tempo of the conveyor, would dictate the pace.

The sociologists confessed that none had a satisfactory solution. The discussion goes on. Vanya is preparing for next year's college admission exams.

Californians Get Non-Stop Legislature

Starting in 1974, we'll have no surcease from the Legislature. The lawmakers in Sacramento will be meeting (and drawing their $30 per diem) all the time. That's because California voters on Nov. 7 approved Proposition 4, labeled on the ballot as "legislative reorganization."

Approval of this constitutional amendment surprised us. We saw little to recommend it. But it got nearly 61 per cent of the vote statewide, and 58 per cent in Marin.

There was little campaign for or against it. Most of the attention centered on the Wagon Initiative, marijuana legalization, restoration of the death penalty, the coastline control measure, and the Agriculture Fair Labor Practices Act.

This being the case, it probably was inevitable that some of the 22 state propositions on the long ballot would benefit from voter inattention. We suspect that's what happened with passage of Proposition 4.

THE CHANGE from the Legislature's annual session to a two-year session, like that of the U.S. Congress, may not have looked important to most voters. After all, in recent years the Legislature has been meeting almost all year anyhow.

It has been holding such long sessions because of its own inability or disinclination to get its work done. The constitution specified no length of session. The legislators could — if they wanted to badly enough — get through by midyear, as they did until we allowed them to raise their own salaries and per diem.

The chance to keep getting that extra $30 per day was just too inviting for the legislators to pass up. Although most of them will tell you solemnly that they "lose money" by serving in the Legislature, their actions belie this. They make little effort to get legislation moved expeditiously. They love that per diem.

Now they will be assured of it for 23 months out of every 24. For Proposition 4 wrote into the constitution a legislative term lasting from the first Monday of December in an even-numbered year to Nov. 30 of the next even-numbered year. That will start in 1974. The first two-year Legislature won't begin until next Jan. 8.

A bill introduced one year can carry over into the next year — instead of dying with the end of the annual session if not passed as in the past. The legislators thus will have even less incentive to move expeditiously.

PROPOSITION 4 was mainly the brainchild of Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, speaker of the Assembly.

This is the same Bob Moretti who, when the Legislature resumed after election, announced there would be no effort at reapportionment this year despite a California Supreme Court mandate that it be done.

He is the same Bob Moretti who, as speaker, is reported setting up machinery to enforce party discipline on Democratic assemblymen who don't vote as he wishes.

And he is the same Bob Moretti who has announced that he plans to run for governor two years hence.

Moretti is (or was) an accountant. If asked, he'd probably tell you that he loses money by serving in the Legislature. We don't know about that; but as an accountant, he knows how to figure ways to make the job as profitable as possible. Proposition 4 will help do that.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

No Deep Water Channels To San Quentin Point

Anent Mrs. Losee's letter published on Nov. 20 wherein she argues against the Larkspur quarry site for a ferry terminal, I wish to correct her statement that there are deep water channels already available to San Quentin Point. There is no deep water within a half mile of San Quentin Point but more explanation seems to be needed here, as follows:

The nearest terminal facility on the San Quentin property is a wharf situated on Corte Madera Creek actually, all lands to the east being on cliffs unsuitable for any sort of docking facilities. The approach to this area from the bay is shallower than the Corte Madera Creek itself by several feet, primarily due to the fact that a tug used to tow barges of gravel from Richmond to the proposed Larkspur site when the tide was high enough and the propeller wash kept the narrow channel pretty well scoured out. It had no such effect on the wide approaches, however, and a short time ago I saw a 15-foot launch aground just outside the channel posts and only a few hundred feet from San Quentin Point. Maybe he read the Losee rough-draft.

Anyhow, the principal dredging problem as I see it is going to be the creation of a deep water channel in S.F. Bay approaching the creek and disposition of spoils from that area, bearing in mind that tidal patterns obey the sun and moon and are indifferent to ferry schedules. Dredging the Corte Madera Creek is a snap by comparison and I somehow am unimpressed by Ms. Losee's dredging figures in view of her obvious misinformation as to navigation problems in the area. I would suggest that she and the good people of Larkspur first consult a chart of these waters and then explore them as we who live on the Corte Madera Creek have done. Because if the lady were to mount an assault on San Quentin by sea on a minus tide she'd have to come on foot or horseback or maybe a raft if the centerboard was up — but not on a ferry drawing more than 2½ feet.

Turkey Farms Story Answers Old Question

About the turkey farms article in the article in the magazine section of the I-J, I have often wondered what was in those buildings on the beautiful headlands of Tomales Bay overlooking the Pacific Ocean; sometimes with the sound of wind rushing through the eucalyptus grove behind my back and those strange rock formations on the other side of my observation point; sometimes they're curious, because of tide and current happenings involved with human fallibility and tragedy.

Curiosity is all embracive, the buildings in the prominent scene of things.

Trouble With Moving To Escape Problems

Awhile back you printed a column by a woman who stated she was fed up with the hassles (in general) of Mill Valley and in bigger respect the county of marvelous (uptight) Marin. She stated she had moved here in 1962 and adored the idyllic beauty of Millville. She then stated her solution: move the family to Oregon because the town had lost that golden aura.

I am happy she has found another town suitable for her children. I also wonder what she will do in another 10 years? I was born in M.V. in 1948. I guess I couldn't move here and obviously open a Jack in the Box or something, then shrewdly bury the town in an uncaring abuse of leechcraft, write it off, save my exploitation money, and move to Oregon. I have nothing but sadness for that town in Oregon, especially for her natives, who in 10 years will be told their town doesn't make it anymore.

I-J Photographers Keep Mother Informed

Within the space of six years, your photographers have twice caught my son, Tony Cox, surrounded by water.

On 1 Dec. 1966 you had a picture of a small boy wading through a large puddle, and your caption was to the effect — "now a mother will know why her son came home soaked." That was how I knew!

On 16 Nov. 1972 you had a photograph, "Unwanted Water," showing a car, a boy on a bicycle and another boy leaping through water. The boy on the bicycle is, again, Tony Cox.

Thank you for twice showing me, pictorially, why my son comes home saturated.

Leave Shoreline Highway As It Is

As a resident of Stinson Beach and one who drives on Shoreline and Panoramic roads daily, I feel that your editorial last week calls for an answer. To my knowledge those of us who use these roads have no complaints and feel they are dangerous because of irresponsible drivers (corner cutters and speeders), not because the roads need widening. These same people will cause trouble in the same ways only perhaps drive faster — after the 10 years of construction we will all have to drive through. This is not a route for speed or getting anywhere in a hurry, but we like it this way.

I would be interested in a toll as to how many accidents have occurred on Shoreline because the road is not wider. I am sure the number would not approach 101 which seems to have something happening every day.

Please leave us as we are. Those who love this area don't mind at all taking perhaps 10 minutes more to reach our destinations.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

McGovern's Alibi, Nixon's Role Both Call For Examination

WASHINGTON — Before Sen. George McGovern's comments on why he lost so badly get widely accepted by repetition, I would like to set out the other side.

In interviews while vacationing in the Virgin Island, the senator made two main points:

That President Nixon's Vietnam policy was "murderous and barbaric" and that he fooled the American voters into accepting it.

That the actions the President took in Vietnam were not designed to get peace but to get re-elected. On this point, James Doyle of the Washington Star-News quoted McGovern as saying: "Nixon dealt with the politics of the problem of Vietnam rather than with the problems."

Earlier, on the eve of the voting, McGovern explained why he was confident he would win. He said the "intelligence and decency of the American people" would give him victory.

SOME MAY BE disposed to accept Senator McGovern's words just because it's McGovern. Others may want to look at the contrary evidence on these three crucial contentions.

I have known rather well all of the presidential losers since the days of F.D.R. and I do not recall any one of them — Landon, Willkie, Dewey, Nixon or Goldwater — ever saying he thought he failed to win because of the stupidity and indecency of the American people.

Does Senator McGovern really want to assign stupidity and indecency to such a vast majority of Americans as voted against him? And how can he thoughtfully believe that the minority who voted for him have a monopoly on intelligence and decency?

As to Vietnam: It was the decision of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson to join in defending South Vietnam from Communist expansion-by-force. Nixon continued to do so to bring the war to an end by a settlement which would have the best chance of insuring its independence.

Was this a "murderous and barbaric" policy?

I HAPPENED to be in London in 1950 on the day the United States went to the defense of South Korea to help resist Communist expansion-by-force. A stranger accosted me as I was walking along Fleet Street.

"You are an American?" he asked. I said, "Yes." He said, "You must be very proud of your country today."

Honest people may think we should not have defended either South Korea or South Vietnam, but others can honestly think that helping a small nation counter aggression is an honorable, not a murderous act.

The best counterinterview to Senator McGovern's seems to me to be what Adlai Stevenson wrote a few days before his death in support of defending South Vietnam.

Unless aggression is checked at its inception, he said, "I believe you set us off on the old, old route whereby expansive powers push at more and more doors, believing they will open, until, at the ultimate door, resistance is unavoidable and major war breaks out."

FINALLY, IS THERE any valid case that Mr. Nixon's actions on Vietnam were not aimed at getting peace, but only at getting re-elected?

The evidence is just the opposite. If the President had wanted to play politics with Vietnam policy, he wouldn't have gone into Cambodia, wouldn't have stepped up bombing this year to halt the final Hanoi offensive, wouldn't have mined the harbors. He knew that the political reaction to these measures would be unfavorable, but he risked taking them to further the prospects of a decent peace.

If McGovern were right in arguing that President Nixon dealt only with the "politics" not the "problems" of Vietnam, would the United States be at the point of reaching a negotiated peace settlement as it is today?

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

'Keep The Downtown Downtown' —Is This Wave Of The Future?

WASHINGTON — This capital witnessed a different kind of demonstration the other day. People from both sides of the Potomac and all sides of the District of Columbia line came, but there was no cursing, no accusations of genocide, nobody who looked as if he had been longer than six hours without a shower.

A high percentage of the demonstrators were urban and suburban matrons. Their signs said things that have not been immortalized on T-shirts, like "Down Zone," "Keep Downtown Downtown," "Washington for People" and "Save the City — From Strangulation, Asphyxiation, Conglomeration."

They started their march at one end of Wisconsin Avenue, where a high-rise office development threatens the historic Georgetown waterfront; went out the avenue past older apartment houses doomed to be razed and replaced by high-rise apartments and offices, and ended at the section where the avenue crosses into Maryland, envisioned by developers as a gigantic business center — the "new downtown" of Washington.

THEY ARE AGAINST intensified commercial development, and they are not alone. So are citizens' groups in nearly every city of a half-million or more people in the country. And the growing opposition is not just to commercial development per se. It is against ramming new highways through unwilling neighborhoods, and against demolition of older residential areas to create instant high-rise slums at public expense.

So far, such demonstrations have an amateur air about them, compared to the trucked-in masses turned out by the antiwar movement in recent years. Their organizations are grossly underfinanced, competing as they are with private developers, public agencies and the federal government. But they are scoring ever more numerous victories, and their numbers are growing.

If we are fortunate, they will be the wave of our future. Not because they grow into the millions, but because before then they are heard and the developers and agencies learn from them to change their objectives. Admittedly, the outlook is not bright yet, but on the evidence it should be.

MORE THAN TWO years ago, for example, a Louis Harris poll asked a cross-section of Americans what they wanted most. Their answers, in order: green grass and trees around me, neighbors with whom I feel comfortable, a church of my faith nearby, a first-rate shopping area nearby, a kitchen with all the modern conveniences, and good schools nearby.

Nowhere on that list is there any demand for high-rise glass boxes, high-rise public housing or multilane expressways. The only one of the six wants with any direct commercial connection is "a first-rate shopping area nearby," and that does not specify whether the respondents would prefer a massive shopping center to a variety of neighborhood shops. I know what my own preference would be. Four of the other answers are instead strongly in conflict with the idea of commercialization, "urban renewal" and large-scale bulldozing in general.

Even more eloquent evidence is in the census figures, which disclose a continuing flight from the cities, where those are the most noticeable activities. Another current survey even indicates that a majority of Americans would like to go all the way back to life on the farm. The cities that drew them in the first place now repel them — by their dirt, noise, crime, congestion, depersonalization.

YET THE FORCES that theoretically respond to public wishes seem unable to understand this movement. The government is at one level elected by the public to carry out the public will, yet at the operating level, it uses the public's money to worsen the very features that depress and chase away the voters.

The commercial interests ultimately have to cater to the public for income and profits, yet at the zoning and building level, their decisions are to tear down what is old, familiar and graceful and substitute what is tawdry, repetitious and productive of the maximum revenue per square foot. As a prescription for dirt, noise, crime, congestion and depersonalization, the government and the developers offer more of the same, at a shockingly high price.

That is what inspires organizations like the Coalition of Optimum Growth, which marched up Wisconsin Avenue here, and the Movement Against Destruction, which is struggling against the expressways cutting into old Baltimore, and their counterparts across the nation. Arm in arm with consumerism and environmental protection, this is the movement of the '70s, and it is gathering momentum. It may turn out to have more horsepower than the heaviest bulldozer.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

San Francisco's Votes Show City's Decadence

By RUS WALTON

The City of San Francisco is a lot like its bay. On a clear day, and even in the fog, it looks beautiful. But when you examine it closely, you can see the pollution.

Take the recent elections. You can see it there. The vast majority of San Franciscans went in the opposite directions from most Californians.

San Franciscans voted to legalize marijuana.

They voted against restoring capital punishment.

They voted for compulsory school bussing.

THE ELITE of San Francisco, the upper middle folks, revel in such voting patterns. They label their city liberal. They are wrong. It is not liberal; it is licentious.

San Francisco is a frontrunner in dope and drugs. It leads the nation in alcoholism. Its suicide rate is three times higher than the national average. It is second in the U.S. in gonorrhea and fourth in syphilis. On a per capita basis, it is the abortion mill of California.

In their fantasy, the so-called beautiful people of Sodom-by-the-Bay call it "culture." They are, their fearless pundits assure them, the most civilized of all; those who disagree are "wowers" (rigorously Puritanical) or "Christers".

But, they are wrong. San Francisco is not civilized. It is not even sophisticated. It is decadent. And those who refuse to be dragged down by its values are not Puritanical, they are just good middle class citizens.

THERE IS, as Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute observes, an increasing hostility and a growing gap between the upper-middle and the middle classes.

When Kahn uses the term "upper-middle" he refers to those with certain avant-garde attitudes and values and not necessarily to those with high incomes. He refers to those who see themselves as the intellectual elite. A $10,000-a-year teacher might be "upper-middle" by Kahn's definition, while a $25,000 executive might be middle class.

"The upper-middle class insists on misunderstanding all the central issues of American life," says Kahn. They are preoccupied with sexual license, permissive laws on drugs and pornography, academic license (vs. academic freedom) and maudlin in socialism (rather than honest compassion).

Middle America, by contrast, is deeply concerned with traditional values, religion, duty, a better environment — including safer streets, patriotism, and the Puritan ethic. The so-called "square" values.

"And," comments Kahn in a recent article in Intellectual Digest, "67 per cent of all Americans are getting squarer and squarer."

They are also getting sicker of the compulsive compulsions of the upper-middle elites.

IT ISN'T THAT middle Americans are intolerant; it's just that they want the elites to stop trying to call the tune. They believe the elitists — who are so self-righteous about being unrighteous — have used their stations in the media, the classrooms, the courts, the pulpits and politics to force their "unvalues" on contemporary society.

Middle Californians, the guts and brains and backbone of this state, have had it with those elites. They aren't having any more; they are fed up. The statewide election results show that.

There is a message here for politicians. San Francisco is not reality. It is not the wave of the future. It is the wave of the past.

Most of the sentiments and politicians representing San Francisco do not represent the values or the wishes of most Californians.

"The skull they found is said to 'age' man a million and a half more years. You've been acting like it, too."

Female Police Dispatchers Still Suffer Discrimination

The more than two dozen lady police dispatchers in Marin County are not too sure they have much to be thankful for this week, as least as far as their retirement years are concerned.

For years now, thanks to some quirk of the male-dominated Legislature and state personnel board, the women have been short-changed.

While male dispatchers could receive the same retirement benefits as safety officers (police), the ladies — who do exactly the same job as the men — could not qualify for those benefits, due to state personnel regulations.

This means that when the women retire, they will receive a great deal less in monthly retirement pay than their male counterparts.

Of course there was no good reason for this discrimination; it was just one of those things that women are supposed to learn to live with.

AFTER FEDERAL laws forbidding discrimination in pay or benefits on the basis of sex came into being, the ladies hoped that they would eventually be permitted to share in the latter benefits.

Theatrical Play On Bible Slated

A traveling troupe presenting a theatrical version of the Biblical Book of Job will perform at two Marin churches next month.

The drama students from California State University, San Francisco, will present the play at 10 a.m. Dec. 10 at the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tirubon and again at 8 p.m. Dec. 15 at the First Congregational Church in San Rafael.

But now their hopes seem dashed, unless the personnel board or someone up there in Sacramento decides to exercise a bit of long-overdue fair play.

My conversations with two representatives of the personnel board convince me that this may be too much to hope for.

A recent bill passed by the Legislature will make it impossible for the men who do dispatching work to receive the same retirement benefits as policemen if they were hired after Sept. 1, 1972.

Men hired before that date are still eligible if they apply for the benefits before Nov. 30. However, women hired before that date are not permitted to apply for the benefits, since they were never eligible for them in the first place.

However, many of the lady dispatchers around the state — including those in Marin — are applying anyway, in the hopes they will be able to take their case to the courts or some higher authority if the personnel board turns them down.

It will be interesting to see if the legislature, which recently approved the women's rights amendment, will permit the commissions and board to continue this discrimination.

THE I-J'S SOUTHERN Marin office's famous potatoes — grown right here in the front yard — will be the piece de resistance at Rev. John MacDonald's monthly breakfast for the Miller Avenue Business Community on Dec. 7 at the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley, 285 Miller.

Ten precious pounds of the 50-pound crop — the biggest and best ones — were set aside for the event.

Persons craving to get a taste had best come early for the breakfast, scheduled from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. The lines are sure to be long.

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Hunger For Open Space Turning Into Spending Binge

For 46 years I have been close to the picture where it has been possible to watch, close hand, cause and effect — action and reaction — in public matters which involved the spending of taxpayers' money. So, believe me when I say:

This blind, reckless binge on open space is giving every evidence of becoming another Brasilia in its appetite for dollars — your dollars.

Four days before election I wrote, "It's a shame that this proposition was presented with such an atmosphere of being on a lark" invading the throne room while the supervisors were in session and people there on serious business, important to them, were forced to wait while costumed activists for open space read a proclamation extolling the idea.

Then we have this quote from an I-J reporter's story of election night, as a further example: One of the leaders of the movement said, "I am going to drink a whole bottle of champagne and wake up with a headache tomorrow."

(The same leader continued, "The organization will push the supervisors to impose the maximum 10-cent property tax rate. The ceiling could be raised some day either by special legislation or voter approval if such a hike became necessary.")

AS I LOOK OVER a desk top loaded with clippings on open space and redevelopment, it's pretty plain that headaches are arriving fast. A by-line story by reporter Pat Perry told of a meeting of mayors and councilmen of Corte Madera, Larkspur and Mill Valley to find out how much the county supervisors, acting as the commission of the new county-wide parks and open space district, would buy of the Northridge area that runs along the crest of each town as well as some unincorporated land. They came away deeply disappointed.

One member of the open space group (members of that group represented a majority of the 100 present) said, "I don't feel the time is right for a bond issue, it would be too hard to arouse the citizens to support such an issue. When will the district begin parceling out the money?"

HERE'S A DOLLAR matter to do a little thinking about: The supervisors put $700,000 in the budget this fiscal year, with the understanding that if the park district carried then that $700,000 would be returned to the general fund and only the levy of 10 cents provided for in the legislation which created the district would be used. But the activists want it now. They don't want to wait for next fiscal year, slightly over six months from now. The 10 cents raises a bit over $700,000.

Hold on to the seat of your chair now. The Parks and Recreation commission (don't get dizzy, just be calm, yes, there are two of them now) wants $980,000 for PARKS. You see what was voted on the 7th of this month had a dishonest label. It was deliberate.

Redevelopment Agreement Eyed By School Board

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider an agreement with San Rafael Redevelopment Agency aimed at easing the financial impact of redevelopment on the school system when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the district office.

The board and the city council, acting as the agency board, are expected to reach agreement on a plan to return tax revenues resulting from increases in assessed valuation of up to 4 per cent in the redevelopment area at a joint meeting set for 7 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The board on Tuesday will also consider a proposed Terra Linda High School beautification project and discuss the adult education program.

King Tut's Tomb

In the 14th Century B.C. Egyptian workmen building the cliff tomb for Pharaoh Rameses VI let their debris fall on top of the tomb of the little known youthful Pharaoh Tutankhamen. Thus, King Tut's tomb lay virtually intact when its sealed entrance was discovered 50 years ago Sunday, on November 26, 1922. British archaeologist Howard Carter had begun his search for the tomb before World War I. In the excavation over 200,000 tons of rock and other rubbish were moved. The most valuable article from the tomb is the throne, which is ornamented with gold, silver, and jewels.

DO YOU KNOW — What famous inscribed stone gave scientists the key to decipher ancient Egyptian picture-writing?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Gobbler.

Expand your knowledge by following this interesting feature, every week-day in the I-J. It develops some aspect of the news in depth, giving you an historically important view or idea that led to its significance in today's world. # Five Mexican Aliens Murdered

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI) — A south Texas rancher who returned to his ranchhouse and spotted five strangers eating food in his kitchen shot and killed all of them with a rifle, police said Thursday.

All of the victims were male Mexican aliens.

"After he shot them he spent the night with the bodies still in there," said deputy sheriff Florencio Rendon. "He waited until the next day to report it."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Associations' magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY
"Berknobs and Broomsticks" — An apprentice witch taking a correspondence course in witchcraft must house three children from London during the blitzkrieg. Their search for the missing half of a spell that will help win the war is a delight.

"Funny Girl" — Barbra Streisand recreates her stage role of Fanny Brice, the Jewish comedienne from New York's lower East Side who becomes the rage of the Ziegfeld Follies.

"Misadventures of Merlin Jones" — A whimsical science comedy about a college student who acquires the ability to hear what people are thinking. Being a rather kooky individual he does stir up a bit of excitement.

"Napoleon and Samantha" — Filmed against rugged mountains and historical gold country of eastern Oregon a small boy and girl and their pet lion make a long and perilous journey to seek refuge with an old friend. Plenty of dramatic action.

"On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" — A silly college student who possesses amazing mystical powers and can reveal her past lives is interwoven with lavish sets and excellent music.

"Vanishing Prairie" — The miracle of life on the prairie, the animal world and nature's wonders.

ADULTS AND TEENS
"Butterflies Are Free" — A blind boy's striking out for independence from a domineering mother is both funny and touching. It presents both youths and parental point of view and can lead to a discussion of values.

"The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight" — The Mafia is spoofed in this slapstick comedy with offensive vulgar language from Jo Van Fleet. Small time gangsters try to kill leader of rival mob but get bogged down in details.

"Ryan's Daughter" — An ageless romantic story photographed against rugged Irish landscape intertwines national pride and an unsanctioned love ending in tragedy. Flash of nudity.

"Separate Peace" — An exclusive New England prep school is the setting for this complex and tragic story of young boys in a world at war in 1942. A reverent adaptation of John Knowles novel. Well acted.

Statue Is Damaged In Youthful Prank

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — Police said today that youths damaged the well known Giamologna statue, "Rape of the Sabine Women," breaking off one foot and one toe while playing a prank.

They said the youths climbed on the statue and attached signs reading "down with pornography" and "children see this" as a joke. As they did so, they damaged the statue.

Police charged rancher Kenneth Adami, 60, an ex-convict, with murder and held him in the county jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

The victims were not identified immediately. Authorities said one of them apparently was from Leon, Mexico.

"There were indications the man shot the aliens from outside the kitchen," said Rendon. "He just stood outside and shot them. They were all in that room, almost on top of each other, shot about the back, the front and the face. Apparently he used a very highpowered rifle."

Rendon said the shooting occurred Wednesday. He said the next day Adami reported the incident to a border patrolman who contacted the sheriff's office.

Justice of the Peace Ernesto Salinas, who set the bond, said the men must have been killed in rapid succession.

"I can't figure out why they didn't run," he said.

Salinas said Adami's ranch "is a big one" used mainly for cattle raising.

Adami was convicted in 1966 of murdering August Dobie of nearby Freer, Tex., the nephew of the late poet-author J. Frank Dobie, and served a two-year prison sentence. The Dobie murder occurred in the vicinity of the ranchhouse.

Rendon said Adami's motive for shooting the five aliens was unclear to him. He said when Adami approached the border patrolman with the news the rancher called out "Hey, I've killed five wetbacks!"

All Set For Holiday Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Postal Service says it is ready to handle the Christmas mail crush and confidently predicts that the once-a-year onslaught will be processed promptly.

"We do not expect a slowdown" because of the heavy Christmas load, Herbert Wurth, a spokesman for the government's mail delivery system said Thursday. "We can give prompt service if mailers get their goods on the path promptly."

According to Wurth, the old Post Office Department hired thousands of temporary workers to process the Christmas mail crush.

The new semi-independent service will be able to handle 90 per cent of the load with regular employees thus speeding up service, he said.

Accused Soviet Spy Removed From Hong Kong By Red Ship

HONG KONG (UPI) —Soviet authorities lost a dispute over a reputed Russian spy today and took the man away from Hong Kong aboard a ship where he stayed for 10 days of arguments and threats.

Hong Kong authorities placed the man aboard the cargo ship Kavalero last week, asserting that he was a Russian spy and it was the responsibility of the Soviet Union to remove him.

The ship's captain, Semen Maslov, refused because he said there was no proof the man, identified as a Chinese-born businessman named Ho Hung-yen, was a Soviet spy.

Maslov gave up the stalemate dispute today and sailed his ship away under police escort. He said he accepted Ho for "humanitarian reasons."

However, Maslov described the deportation order as unprecedented in international shipping practice while the official Soviet news agency Tass called the detention of the Russian ship in Hong Kong "a provocative act."

$50,000 Award To Professor

PARIS (UPI) —Professor Rene Debos of Rockefeller University in New York Thursday was awarded the Institute of Life Prize.

The $50,000 prize was awarded for Debos' work in bacteriology.

Debos, 71, was born in France and moved to the United States in 1923.

The Kavalero originally was scheduled to leave Nov. 14, but stayed in the harbor after Ho, who was arrested in Hong Kong in July on suspicion of spying for Moscow, was placed aboard by police on orders of the immigration department.

Maslov and the ship's Hong Kong agents filed a petition with the government asking authorities to remove Ho on grounds he is not a Russian citizen, carried no travel documents and was sick. The government turned down the petition.

The government refused to state officially why it deported Ho but one spokesman said the businessman, when told he must leave, asked to go to the Soviet Union.

fascination with wildflowers while cameraman Sam Lopez captures the scene on color film. The youngsters are Jeff Hansbery, Janeen Jones and Brett Hansbery, all of San Rafael.

ELIZABETH TERWILLIGER

Naturalist Turns Movie Star

By BETTY FROST

Marin's newest movie star is Elizabeth Terwilliger. The Mill Valley naturalist whose excursions on foot, bike or canoe are a Marin legend, is leading groups of children on nature discovery jaunts. Nothing unusual about that except that now she is doing it in front of the camera.

Three 10-minute films, in sound and color, are being prepared under the sponsorship of the Marin Audubon Society, through an educational grant from Standard Oil Co. of California. Spearheading the project is Mrs. Donald Bekins of Belvedere, educational chairman of the society.

One movie emphasizes the life in a salt water marsh, another shows the wonders of a redwood forest as seen through the eyes of children. A third, Mrs. Terwilliger said, will have to wait for spring and will concentrate on wildflowers. All are being filmed in Marin. They will be available for showing on a short-term basis or may be purchased at nominal cost by school districts.

That isn't the only project for the ebullient "Mrs. T." In December she has two classes scheduled for the Town School for Boys of San Francisco. They will hike and observe nature in Muir Woods and Muir Beach.

The longtime campaigner who has spearheaded Marin conservation efforts for 25 years has joined yet another battle. The "Butterfly Trees" of Muir Beach are her current "cause celebre." On behalf of the stand of about 20 pine trees, where from October to February each year, the monarch butterflies stop in their migration, Mrs. Terwilliger is assailing local, state, and federal governmental agencies, as well as organizations concerned with environmental preservation.

"The phenomenon of the Butterfly Trees in Asilomar is celebrated each year in mid-October by a Butterfly Parade in Pacific Grove," Mrs. Terwilliger said. "Few people know we have the same thing in Marin County."

In Bolinas the Monarchs settle in the Eucalyptus trees. "But," said Mrs. Terwilliger in a matter-of-fact way, "lots of small children get carsick on the road to Bolinas. The Butterfly Trees in Muir Beach are perfect. At first it seems as though there are dry leaves on the tree. But with the slightest disturbance, the whole tree comes alive with fluttering butterflies."

Of a study for additions to the Golden Gate Recreation Area which might include additional scenic spots such as the Muir Beach Butterfly Pines, Mrs. Terwilliger said, "I hope they hurry."

EXPLORING THE environment in Marin. Amy Altshuler of Mill Valley and Mrs. Terwilliger carefully examine a starfish for the seashore nature film, one of three being made for the Marin Audubon Society.

Kohlensteins Set Reception To Honor Concert Soloists

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception will be given by the Joseph Kohlensteins at their San Rafael home to honor soloists Mary Costa and Lucien Mitchell and Maestro Sandor Salgo Monday after the opening concert of the Marin Symphony at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Special guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Russell Edgerton of Washington, D.C. Mrs. Edgerton, the former Nancy Boland, is attending the special concert dedicated to the memory of her late parents, symphony musicians Alice and Barry Boland, who were founders of the Marin Symphony Orchestra.

Other guests will be the concertmaster, Charles Meacham of Mill Valley and Mrs. Meacham, as well as past presidents of the Symphony Association board of directors, patrons and current members of the board.

A SAHARA safari was an unusual trip taken by Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Mohler of Sausalito. In a convoy of four Land Rovers they covered 3,200 miles in the desert. They remained in tight convoy formation because it is easy to get lost in the desert, explained Mrs. Mohler.

At night they camped, setting up tents. Each Land Rover was a complete unit. The women took turns cooking breakfasts and dinners for the eight or nine people in their vehicle.

"The Sahara is not just sand," Mrs. Mohler said. There are mountains, a tremendous rock desert and sand dune formations. The sun goes down quickly in the desert and the stars are particularly beautiful, she thought. They encountered many camel caravans, some carrying salt, an important commodity, and others dates and other produce for exchange.

They flew to London from San Francisco and on to Casablanca. They drove to Marrakesh and started their long journey through Algeria en route to Nigeria. The Mohlers spent six weeks on the safari.

Because it was essential to carry large amounts of water and gasoline, the tourists were limited to 25 pounds of clothing. They also were forbidden to bring home any souvenirs of the beautiful desert rocks because of the excess weight.

A GROUP friends from Marin spent two weeks in Spain, making their headquarters on the Costa del Sol at Marbella, where they enjoyed playing golf on the Andalusia Course.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Greenland of Mill Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seiler of Nicasio, Mrs. Donald Romph of Fairfax, Messrs. and Mmes. William Sarm, Wayne Wollick, and James Dugan of San Rafael, and Dr. and Mrs. L.K. Duffield of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, former residents of Corte Madera who moved to Surry, England, four months ago, joined the group for a week. They made side trips to Madrid, Granada, Tangiers, Marrakesh and Gibraltar. While they were at Marbella they saw the yacht of Aristotle Onassis tied up at the yacht club.

THE THREE directors of productions for the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts were honored at a potluck summer last Sunday at the home of Don Stubbs in Mill Valley. All the casts and crews attended the party for Martin Frick, Ellen Genese and John Balmer. The cast of the musical "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," which will open at 8:30 tonight at the center, took a break from rehearsals to attend the supper

A NUMBER Marinites attended the dinner and trophy presentation party at the St. Francis Yacht Club last Saturday night in San Francisco. Leonard Delmas of San Rafael, St. Francis vice commodore, officiated at the presentation ceremonies and also picked up the first place trophy for the performance of his yacht, Another Girl.

Sharing a table were the Robert Potters of Mill Valley and the George Fays of Strawberry. Steve Schneider of Belvedere accepted his trophy for racing the Top Banana in the Yacht Racing Association 1972 season.

MRS. PATRICIA West Newbold and Donald Wineland were married Wednesday, at Mrs. Newbold's home in Novato. Their attendants were Nancy Newbold, the bride's daughter, and Scot Wineland, the bridegroom's son. Patricia is also the mother of Robert Newbold. Mr. Wineland, principal of Lynwood School, is also the father of Debbie Wineland.

The evening ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. M. Croughan. Attending the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Ranald West of Cincinnati, Ohio, the bride's parents.

Miss Patricia K. Howard Weds John Frederic Kadel

Patricia Katherine Howard became the bride of John Frederic Kadel in a Saturday afternoon ceremony at St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church in Portland, Ore.

After the nuptials the couple greeted guests at the reception at the Howard home.

When they return from a wedding trip to British Columbia, Patricia and John will live in Portland.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson High School in Portland and attended the University of Oregon. She is the sister of Pamela Woods and Robert Howard, both of Portland, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wooten of Astoria, Ore., and Mrs. V. F. Howard of Roseville.

MRS. JOHN F. KADEL (Patricia Howard)

John is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the University of Oregon and is employed with the First National Bank of Oregon in Portland. He is the brother of Richard W. Kadel of New Haven, Conn., and the grandson of Mrs. Adelaide M. Halsted of Oakland and Mrs. Hazel Kadel of Roseville.

Arkansas Woman Spins A Different Kind Of Yarn

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — At "Spinoaks," home of Lee and Virginia Ericson, things are in a spin.

Mrs. Ericson is among Americans practicing the ancient art of spinning.

Virginia held weekend teaching sessions at "Spinoaks" the past summer and also presided at a workshop in Little Rock.

She says one of the fun things about working with the spinning wheel is selecting the sheep from which one wants wool for spinning.

Making vegetable dyes from weeds is another entertaining aspect, Mrs. Ericson said. At times, she gets her plants from the roadside, under the eyes of curious passing motorists.

"I suppose they think I'm out gathering my supper," she said. "And in a sense, I am, of course."

She says in spinning a spinner "tunes up-tensions-a wheel much as a musician tunes his instrument."

"Wheels tell many interesting secrets," Mrs. Ericson said. "By their wear marks one can tell what kind of yarn was spun, whether the spinner was left-handed or righthanded, and whether the wheel was treadled with the spinner's right or left foot or both."

"It's funny to say this, but we feel a certain sympathy with the wheels," she said. "They are almost like living things because they are a part of history, coming as they do from a time when people had to use them to make a living, or to make the things they needed in their homes."

Her husband, a metallurgist, is expert in making and reconditioning spinning wheels and their parts, she said.

Western Women Are Not Bashful About Czechoslovakian Face-Lifts

By IVA DRAPALOVA

PRAGUE (AP) — A number of Western women — above all Americans — are not getting red-faced about obtaining a face-lift in Communist Czechoslovakia, trusting this can be done there more discreetly than at home.

Newspaper articles and word-of-mouth have made the Prague Cosmetic Institute a much sought-out face-lifting clinic for women from the non-Communist world.

The waiting period at the Institute is six months or longer.

"They are really brave when you come to think of it," Dr. Karel Fahoun, 44, head of the Institute, said about the women who come to see him. "They are traveling to a foreign country, and a Communist one at that, with a strange language knowing they will face a difficult operation."

THE HANDSOME, boyish-looking Dr. Fahoun has become a favorite with the ladies.

He himself is not quite enthusiastic about "the American invasion." The institute had to double the number of post-operative care beds, and it is booked out until after the end of the year.

Dr. Fahoun has been operating on at least one American a day, mostly women.

"We cannot expand any more," he sighed.

Before his new fame, Dr. Fahoun had been operating on a limited number of foreigners for years. They were diplomats or their friends and relatives. Americans, West Germans and Austrians, mainly. They were well acquainted with Czechoslovakia and in most cases did not have far to go.

The new customers usually had no previous contacts with Czechoslovakia.

THE MAIN attraction of face-lift in Czechoslovakia for a Westerner is the price and the anonymity of the operation.

A face-lift costs $400, an operation of upper and lower eyelids, $200 or $220, and a new nose is $300. Prices for similar operations in the United States reportedly are much higher.

The prices in Czechoslovakia may not be so cheap in the end, considering the travel costs and the expense of staying here.

In a number of cases, more than one operation is necessary.

Dr. Fahoun cautioned that would-be patients should take seriously the information in leaflets about the institute. It insists on intervals between operations.

"When a face is swollen after the first operation, I cannot estimate how long it will take until I can proceed with the next one," he said.

Advice On Trees

NEW YORK (UPI) — Never mind about keeping your tree up all the 12 days of Christmas. It's time to take the tree down when the needles begin to fall — be that the fifth, sixth or some other day short of the magic 12. The advice from Metropolitan Life is based on accident prevention. A tree dry enough to lose its needles is a tinder box.

Fewer Stanford Women Planning To Follow Career Of Housewife

STANFORD — (BW) — Fewer than one out of 25 women graduating from Stanford in 1972 is expected to be a full-time housewife in five years, according to a study by the Committee on the Education and Employment of Women in the university released Wednesday.

"The Stanford undergraduate

Women Choose Two Presidents

Martha Olney of Corte Madera and Monica Micon of Kentfield have been elected co-presidents of Women on the Move at Redwood High School.

Other new officers for the group, which promotes the advancement of women in careers and society as a whole, are Robin Merwin of Greenbrae, secretary; Diane Blumenfeld of Kentfield, treasurer; Diana Muirhead and Candy Boyer, both of Greenbrae, program coordinators; Sue Lyon and Liz Strong of Tiburon, speakers bureau coordinators; Sheila Colwell of Corte Madera and Lisa Lucheta of Greenbrae, coordinators of public relations, membership and newsletter.

Women on the Move meets the first and third Thursdays of the school year in room 163 at Redwood High School at 12:40 p.m. Faculty advisors are Carol Neumeier and Anne Tellis.

woman has changed remarkably over the past five years," comments the study. She no longer accepts the traditional roles which society assigned to her as a member of the female sex. Graduating men and women seniors have now very similar education and occupational aspirations, it said.

In a 1965 survey, 70 per cent of the Stanford women studied said they would not work at all when their children were under six years old, and 43 per cent intended to work full time when their children were over 12 years of age.

Among the 1972 graduates, only 3 per cent of the women who intended to work immediately after graduation said they would stop when their husbands had finished school. Only 7 per cent said they would stop to raise children.

In all, 18.5 per cent of the women mentioned the role of wife and mother as part of their main activities in the next five years.

"In the past it was assumed that most Stanford men would become professionals or businessmen while Stanford women would become housewives, school teachers and secretaries. This stereotype used to be approximately reality. It is no longer valid," the survey noted.

There now is little difference between the proportions of Stanford women and men who plan to become professionals.

Sixty-nine per cent of the men and 53 per cent of the women who have a definite long-range plan say they will become doctors, lawyers, college professors and scientists. Almost the same proportions of men (54 per cent) and of women (49 per cent) planned to go on for graduate study in the next six months.

Comparison with Stanford seniors in 1965 indicates that while the proportion of men interested in medicine, law and other professions increased from 36 per cent to 41.5 per cent, the proportion of women so interested went from 5.8 per cent to 26.1 per cent.

In 1965 the ratio of men to women planning to enter the professions was 6 to 1. In 1972 the ratio is 1.6 to 1. A major decrease in interest involves women planning to enter elementary and secondary education. That proportion is down from 36 per cent to 10 per cent.

Virtually all of the women and men who aspired to professional expected to reach their goals, with the single exception of women who would like to be college professors or scientists. This may be related to a report by 23 per cent of the Stanford women that they had been discouraged from occupational or academic goals by a member of the Stanford community because of their sex. Another 5 per cent reported discrimination but said that it had not discouraged them.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Are Men Meek About Buying Clothes After They Become Married?

DEAR HELEN:

At 15, I stopped letting my mother help me shop for clothes. No self-respecting teenage boy would allow his female parent near the men's department when he looks for "new threads."

So why is it, Helen, that when an independent boy matures into a married man, he turns meek? How many men would dare buy a suit without their wives tagging along and giving orders?

Today my wife said, "Let's go shopping for your shoes this weekend." Even shoes, she doesn't trust me to buy alone! I have pretty good taste, having been a bachelor four years after leaving home. But no: she feels it her sacred duty to "save me from mistakes."

Yet if I insisted on choosing her clothes, World War III might erupt in our bedroom.

How do you keep wives out of "Men's Clothing," Mrs. B? — WOULD RATHER BUY IT MYSELF

DEAR WRBIM:

Your wife might counter with the question: "How do you get husbands into 'Men's Clothing' unless you take their hands and lead them?" In average families, women are the shoppers, men the sufferers who put off clothes-buying until they're practically threadbare and then take the first items offered to get the agony over fast. (Well, anyway, that's what we women like to believe.)

If you aren't this type of man, rise up and say so! After all, you successfully banished your mother from the boys' department: Have you meekened so much since then? — H.

MRS. B:

Someone recently criticized the sexual perversions and promiscuity rampant in this corrupt and carnal society called "America," and you so "cleverly" said, "What's that about casting the first stone?" I know that your primary qualifications for the privilege you enjoy as a press "sage," is a fantastic effrontery and an inflated ego, but why bring Christ into it? Don't weasel out of your stupid (so-called "non-condemning" but really ignorant, headed-for-hell-fire-liberalist) opinions by quoting the Bible! If you were any kind of "helper" you'd tell the world how bad its people are! — W.S.

DEAR W:

What's that about "love one another"? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Here's an answer to "Curious", who wondered how spouses find time or energy for affairs. Maybe they aren't his type of family person. The men and women who find time to chase certainly aren't walking their dogs, playing with children, mowing the lawns or repairing the house — all those things "Curious" mentions.

Loving mates are too busy performing works of love. They may feel a bit curious, but they are seldom tempted beyond a few mild fantasies. — E.W.

DEAR HELEN:

Where do unfathfuls get their energy? The last wonderful affair I had before marriage lasted several years and was with a 50-year-old married man.

His executive job allowed him great flexibility of hours, and his 30-year marriage took a minimum of energy. Remember, too, affairs are frequently carried on at the office. Then there's the long lunch hour and of course the happy hour after work. Have "Curious" check some of the bars at 4:45 p.m.!

P.S. — I have a greater marriage than most as I learned how to cope with people and situations before marriage. — JUDY

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Black Fashion Nothing New, According To Top Designer

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "All the lies you've heard about black fashion being new were just that — lies. . . . We were sewing from the trees!" exulted Lois Alexander in her introduction to "300 Years of Fashion: Contributions of Black People," presented at the American Hotel as part of the Second Annual Black Expo. The show was a highlight of the four-day exposition, which included business and cultural exhibits, racial sensitivity seminars and entertainment events.

Mrs. Alexander, who is director of the Harlem Institute of Fashion, organized the panorama of black fashion history from the days of slavery through the present. According to her, all the garments in the show were authentic black designs, or "line for line" interpretations by contemporary black designers of the historic styles.

Conspicuously and ambiguously absent were three of New York's major black designers, Willi Smith, Stephen Burrows and Scott Barrie. Smith had agreed to participate but canceled at the last minute because of a conflict with a show of his own.

THE COMMENTARY by Mrs. Alexander and Gloria Thomas of CBS-TV revealed that one of the primary purposes of the show was to instill black pride. The presentation began with a prologue which asserted that "four of the most beautiful women in history, Neferiti, the Queen of Sheba, a Mexican queen, and Cleopatra, were black," and a black model portraying each strolled down the runway in a custom-made gown to prove it.

Also stressed were unusual achievements of black seamstresses, such as Elizabeth Keckley and Anne Lowe, who designed respectively Mrs. Abraham Lincoln's inaugural ball gown and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis's first wedding dress.

But many of the clothes from the Emancipation period through the 1950s were indistinguishable from their white counterparts, and merely illustrated Mrs. Alexander's contention that "most black women designed their own clothes because they couldn't afford to do otherwise."

The '60s, however, marked the dawn of fashion permissiveness. It was in this decade that black fashion evidenced a unique vitality and originality that have stimulated the entire fashion scene.

NOT SURPRISINGLY, the show entered high gear during the presentation of the '60s and '70s styles, and confirmed what should be obvious from general street observation: Black men are not only stealing the fashion scene from black women but from white men also. The London Sunday Times recently published an article that began, "The best-dressed men in America are black."

While most of the contemporary women's clothes in the show were derivative of Seventh Avenue, with the exception of a few ethnically flavored outfits, the men's clothes possessed a vigorous iconoclastic protest against drab conformity. Felt hats, fur coats, bold checks, leather and suede designed in the most debonair styles and smashing colors may seem too flamboyant to many observers, yet on a black man they seem more of an assertion of pride.

ON BEING BLACK

Ways To Field Obscene Call If You Remember At The Time

The anonymous male voice at the other end of the line was husky. "I really go for black women. I'd like to . . ." And then he detailed, graphically, his sexual interests.

We were in the middle of a birthday party for 6-year-olds, and the last thing on my mind was an X-rated conversation.

When the last balloon had popped and there was time for quiet contemplation, I thought about how I might have handled the call, other than the flip "I'm busy. Could you call back tomorrow?"

Temporarily experiencing mock indignation, I thought about castigating him with a barrage of name-calling — Dingbat, Turkey, Hamburger Head!

Then recollections of chapter 19 in College Psych One came to mind. This poor soul was begging for help. He needed and wanted to reform. This desperate voice on the line obviously had one of Freud's favorite afflictions: He hated his mother.

Psychiatrists say that nuts with this type of hang-up have a great fear of real personal contact (the phone call and the woman's gasps of shock are all he needs).

He clearly had a racial-sexual hang-up. I might have blown his whole trip by telling him I wasn't black. (I wonder if we all have an accent and sound alike?) In most cities, people with certain telephone prefixes live in certain sections of the city, so it's not difficult to ring up a sister.

Had I been calm (during a birthday party?) I might have interrupted him and started talking myself, telling him what I'd like to do to him! Better yet, I could have embarked on a nonstop stoic discourse on the political state of affairs in Czechoslovakia. A change of subject might have cooled his heels and, who knows, added to his education.

The best idea would have been to suggest that he transpose his verbal imagery to paper. The great American way, tried and proved, has been to turn one's aberrations into money. How about a best-seller sex book: "The Confessions of an Obscene Phone Caller," "The Executive Handbook for Making Obscene Phone Calls" or "One Ringy, Tow Ringy." Sex sells!

The telephone company offers a couple of suggestions, short of changing your number or leaving the phone off the hook for the day. Purchase an inexpensive, shrill whistle, and as the kooky caller snuggles up to his telephone receiver, give a few blasts on the whistle. Good for a momentary distraction at least.

It also suggests you pretend the call is being traced (though tracing takes much more time than the Television programs would lead us to believe). By dialing the second digit on your dial face (ABC) you can cause a clicking sound without disconnecting the call. Then suggests Ma Bell, say clearly, "Yes, Officer, this is the call."

Now that I'm ready for my next obscene phone call, I have a feeling I'll never get a chance to try out these great strategies. I suspect obscene calls are like the measles — mildly distressing and you only get 'em once.

Only One Of Four Complain About Apparel

Only about one of four persons who are dissatisfied with an item of apparel they have bought ever complain to the retailer or the manufacturer about the problem.

Mary Lou Rooney, consumer specialist for a national fabric protector and tape manufacturing company, suggests telling the retailer or manufacturer about unsatisfactory products. Such information can help them improve their products and it gives the firm an opportunity to make adjustments for the dissatisfied customer, she said. And consumer apathy aids no one.

She suggests the customer discuss the problem with the retailer — either the salesperson or store adjustment department. Take the sales receipt and state the complaint clearly, she advises.

Credit, Credit, The American Way Of Life Today

By HARRY B. ELLIS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service
WASHINGTON — The United States is far and away the most debt-ridden country in the world, both in absolute and relative terms.

American consumers are in debt to the tune of $140 billion — or 13 per cent of the entire U.S. gross national product, GNP.

"In the past 25 years," said Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson, "consumer credit has increased 25 times, whereas the GNP has grown only five times."

Americans, as they plunge themselves deeper and deeper into the red, increasingly resent — often with reason — the enormously complex system that extends them credit.

This reporter and his wife, just returned from years of living overseas, opened charge accounts with stores in the Washington area.

Some accounts work fine. But one firm billed us an interest charge, though we had paid our account fully and on time. We pointed out the error, the credit manager apologized — the "computer was wrong."

We made a purchase in another department store. The salesgirl rang up the charge, looked at the blinking green lights on her cash register, glanced at us, and made a telephone call. Then she approved the sale.

I asked why she had telephoned. "Well," she said, "the register indicated a credit problem." We had not, according to the register, paid our last month's bill.

True enough. We never received it. The credit office looked up the account, agreed with us, and promptly sent a bill. On it was an interest charge for default in payment.

We paid the bill, minus the interest charge, and — more or less politely — suggested the firm overhaul its billing system.

These were minor irritants. But thousands of Americans, perhaps millions, lured by the credit card, have more serious credit problems.

They sign a mortgage, take out a home-improvement loan, buy an automobile on time, "fly now, pay later" for a vacation trip — and find out they can't pay their bills.

Arthur E. Rasmussen, chairman of the Household Finance Corp., suggests "consolidation" for such consumers. They should itemize all their installment debts under one heading, measure them against their income, and budget properly.

James D. Farley, executive vice-president First National City Bank of New York, goes further. He advocates that grade and high schools, in courses on government, civic affairs, and home economics, "teach children the role of

Special Yule Dance Program Is Announced

'Twas the Night Before Christmas" will be presented as a ballet by the Dancers Repertory Theater Dec. 8 and 9 at Dominican College in San Rafael.

But in contrast to the Christmas poem in which not even the mouse was stirring, 82 Bay Area dancers from 6 to 26 years old will provide the action, according to the college.

Performances are set for 1:30 and 8 p.m. Dec. 8 and 8 p.m. Dec. 9 in Angelico Hall. Reservations are required for the debut.

The dance students from San Francisco, the Peninsula, East Bay and Marin will dress as tumblers, animated toys, snowflakes, ornaments, angels and reindeer.

The action will be keyed to the words of the poem written 150 years ago by Clement C. Moore and to traditional Christmas music, according to the college.

A Newsletter Is Launched

Volunteers at the Marin County Probation Department have started a monthly newsletter chronicling the gossip, feats, activities and events of the department.

The first printing of "The Inside Story" is a six-page publication for November edited by Maurine Ballard.

The "inside" news runs from a report on a training program and a feature on a day in the life of a probation officer to who is expecting a child and who has been promoted.

NAME OF THE GAME — These credit cards represent the current way of life for millions of Americans. A current study shows that problems of debt are growing for the consumer.

These two men, representing major credit grantors, headed a subcommittee on consumer credit of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs (NBCCA). The subcommittee has compiled a report called "Financing the American Consumer," which suggests a code of conduct for credit grantors and makes 11 recommendations for improving the credit system.

Peterson has written 1,200 American firms, urging compliance with the new credit code, and inviting their response.

The code lacks enforcement machinery, and no firm is obliged to adhere. "But," said Peterson, "this code makes positive credit standards much more visible," so that American consumers should see more clearly which firms are complying.

Among major recommendations, the Rasmussen-Farley subcommittee urges that credit granting criteria should be the same for men and women. "It was not too long ago," remarked Mr. Rasmussen, "that a woman often was denied credit or had to have a man cosign her application."

Credit-rating systems should not discriminate against such types of income as welfare, unemployment, and hospitalization payments. The primary criteria for granting credit should be ability and willingness to pay — not where the applicant's money comes from.

Credit granting systems should avoid, wherever possible, passing costs on to noncredit users. If the store price of a radio, or the restaurant price of a meal, includes a hidden charge to finance credit, the cash customer is penalized.

The subcommittee report inveighs strongly against "objectionable (bill) collection practices, which offend the consumer's dignity and deprive him of an opportunity to be heard." Calls by bill collectors, for example, early in the morning or late at night constitute harassment.

The suggested "code of billing and collection practices" urges creditors to explain credit terms simply and clearly, to present bills promptly, respond immediately to consumer complaints, and reasonably reduce or eliminate late charges where warranted.

Creditors, the code says, should operate from the principle that every consumer intends to pay his bill.

The code urges credit grantors to "supervise" and "police" the methods and activities of collection agencies employed by the grantors to collect their bills.

Consumer complaints about the quality of goods and services should be promptly investigated and resolved or explained, says the suggested code of credit ethics.

Creditors should ask debtors to pay only that part of the bill which is not in dispute, "and should not press for payment of the disputed portion until the facts have been determined and the customer notified of the result."

The subcommittee report took no definitive stand on the gray area in the credit system — the "holder-in-due-course" doctrine. This legal principle absolves third-party lenders, such as banks, from responsibility for the quality of goods and services sold by another firm to consumers receiving the credit.

If such a consumer finds fault with a product or service, he must argue his case with the retail supplier — but continue to repay his loan to the bank.

The report implied that further study was needed on the "holder-in-due-course" principle, which consumer-advocate groups have attacked as unfair to the customer.

The report urges widespread support for educational programs to explain the credit system — both for the protection of the debtor and of the lender.

Authors of the report, noting that credit was used in the social systems of ancient Babylon, Greece, and Rome, start from the premise that installment buying demonstrably is what the American consumer wants to do. The problem, therefore, is to make the system more equitable.

FTC Will Challenge Directorate Overlaps

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said Friday it would challenge alleged interlocking directorates — illegal under federal law — involving three major producers of aluminum, copper and steel.

The FTC said it would issue separate complaints against the three firms and against two officials who allegedly serve on the boards of directors of two of them.

The targets of the action were Alcoa, the nation's largest aluminum company, along with Kennecott Copper Corp. and Armco Steel Corp. The FTC said it would also cite Russell DeYoung, identified as a director of both Alcoa and Ken-cott, and John A. Mayer, identified as a director of Alcoa and Armco.

Federal law prohibits any person from holding directorships in two competing companies where either one has capital, surplus and undivided profits aggregating more than $1 million. Alcoa had 1971 revenues of $1.5 billion, Kennecott of $1.3 billion and Armco of $1.7 billion.

The proposed complaints, served under the FTC's consent order procedure, said Alcoa and Armco were competitors because of the "interchangeability of aluminum and steel for certain uses, including industrial and commercial siding and roofing, items for cryogenic use and automobile bumpers and trim."

Similarly, the FTC said, Alcoa and Kennecott were competitors because of the "interchangeability of aluminum and copper for certain uses, including electrical conductors and heat exchanger components."

Driver Is Arrested For Drinking

A Larkspur man was arrested yesterday in Mill Valley on suspicion of drunken driving and resisting arrest after an automobile accident.

The man, Wiley Andrew Washington, 24, of a trailer park at 2000 Redwood Highway, was arrested at about 5 p.m. by Mill Valley police after his car ran off Sycamore Avenue at Shelter Bay Avenue and hit a utility pole.

According to police, Washington resisted arrest and had to be wrestled to the ground by two officers and a bystander. He complained of back pain from the collision and was taken to Marin General Hospital where he allegedly spat on Larkspur police officers and swung at doctors and nurses, police reported.

A passenger in his car, Deborah Hover, 20, of 1101 Shelter Bay Avenue, was treated at the hospital for a cut lip and neck pains.

Washington was booked into Marin County Jail and released on $1,200 bail. He was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday.

Handgun Theft At Northgate

Between 50 and 60 handguns were stolen by burglars who broke into the Big 5 Sporting Goods store in Northgate early yesterday. San Rafael police said today.

Police said the thieves apparently had used a two-by-four plank found outside the store to break glass in a door in order to get into the store.

In addition to the guns, they also took ammunition.

The break-in was discovered at 4:35 a.m.

Meany In Hospital For Chest Pains

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, 79, complained of chest pains Thanksgiving Day and was admitted to a hospital.

A spokesman for Phelps Memorial Hospital said today that Meany's condition remained stable. He said Meany was being kept in the hospital "mainly for observation."

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

Poll On Capital Punishment-Up From March

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — The Gallup Poll reported Thursday that the percentage of American adults favoring capital punishment for convicted murderers is now 57 per cent—the highest in 19 years.

The latest survey completed last week is up from 50 per cent found in a March survey and may reflect among other interviewed "widespread fear concerning personal and family safety—the 'hidden issue' in this year's presidential election," Gallup said.

Previous high was in 1953 when 68 per cent of all adults interviewed favored the death penalty, the poll said.

Jews Arrested In Moscow For Protest

MOSCOW (UPI) —Police detained several Soviet Jews today for participating in two successive days of demonstrations at the central telegraph office in protest against the government's refusal to grant them exit visas for Israel, a Jewish source said.

The exact number in police custody was not known. But one source said at least nine were arrested in Thursday's demonstration while another informant put the total at 16.

Back To Normal

LONDON (AP) — Britain's railways returned to normal today after a 24-hour strike that shut down the nation's rail services.

Auto Chase Results In Theft Arrest

A San Rafael man was arrested last night on suspicion of concealing stolen property and car theft after he was stopped for speeding and the car he was driving turned out to be stolen.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Ralph Richard Umland, 24, of 47 El Camino Street. He was held in lieu of $1,000 bail and was to appear in municipal court today.

Police said Umland was driving at a high rate of speed on Fourth Street in San Rafael when he was stopped. A routine check on the car, a 1960 Oldsmobile, showed it had been reported stolen four weeks ago, police said.

Umland told police he had bought the car for $50 from a man who picked him up when he was hitchhiking, but he did not have the pink slip for the car.

Police also confiscated a dirk found in the car.

Pair Hurt In Auto Accident

Two San Francisco women were injured yesterday in an automobile accident on Tiburon Boulevard, just west of Rockhill Road, Tiburon police reported today.

The driver, Kathrine J. Duffy, 58, was arrested in absentia on suspicion of drunken driving while being treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries.

Her passenger, Bernice Griffith, 59, was hospitalized for a broken right leg and multiple foot fractures.

According to police, the car swerved off Tiburon Boulevard at 9 p.m. and crashed into a guard rail.

Rice Agreement

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The United States signed an agreement today providing an additional 40,000 tons of American rice valued at more than $9 million to the Cambodian government.

Rent Write-Off Policy Explained

The chairman of the Marin County Housing Authority Board, in a letter to county supervisors, has reported that his agency's practice of "writing off" uncollected rents was unavoidable because of fly-by-night tenants.

Arthur Miller Jr., said about $12,000 was scratched off earlier this year "because in the past, tenants had been allowed to get several months behind in their rent...then skipped, leaving the authority with large uncollected amounts of accounts receivable."

Miller's letter was in response to charges leveled against the agency by former board member Norman B. Campbell, who said the agency staff was negligent in collecting rents — primarily at the low-income housing project in Marin City.

"It is now the opinion of the board," Miller continued, "with strict enforcement of rent collection procedures the need for large write-offs will be eliminated."

He said a new system of rent collection will keep the housing authority in the black, even though its budget was cut by $22,000 by the federal government.

(A different means of keeping the authority in the black was announced recently by the authority's executive director, Wallace K. Shepherd: a policy of moving higher income families than in the past into the public housing project.)

Miller, answering other charges by Campbell, said the authority did not deny fringe benefits to maintenance employees but in fact "provided for full fringe benefits for all its employees."

He said thousands of dollars were not being siphoned off by attorneys, as claimed by Campbell, but rather were spent for needed legal opinions and representation in court.

Miller said the delay in moving housing authority offices from Marin City to San Rafael was caused by delays in negotiations with owners of the new office space.

Miller's letter, along with a memorandum from County Administrator John F. Barrows, will be reviewed Tuesday by county supervisors, who ordered an investigation into the financial affairs of the authority.

Barrows's memo notes that the federal government is launching its own review of housing authority records and recommends the county hold off until the findings of the federal study are known.

Two Erroneous Ages In Story

Yesterday's Independent Journal in reporting the results of a Superior Court trial of a case of assault, attempted robbery and burglary gave two erroneous ages and one erroneous date.

Kevin John Whisenhunt, found guilty of those offenses by Judge David Menary Jr., is 19, not 26, and his victim, William Markey of 137 Hillside Avenue, Kentfield, is 53, not 50.

Sentencing will take place Jan. 2, not Jan. 7.

Supervisors To Tackle Ag Rezoning

Controversial rezoning of the county's agricultural preserve will be considered Tuesday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The board, meeting at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, postponed action on the rezoning two weeks ago due to the absence of chairman Peter R. Arrigoni.

The rezoning calls for placing rural areas around Nicasio and from Muir Beach to Olema in the controversial A-60 designation which allows one home per 60 acres.

Agricultural areas around Novato and in northwest Marin already have been placed under A-60 zoning with scattered parcels zoned for three, five, 10, 20 and 40-acre lot sizes.

Some landowners and ranchers have protested that the rezoning is a confiscation of property since it blocks economic development of the land.

Others argue that the rezoning is needed to protect the agricultural industry from the pressures of urban development and to preserve open space.

The hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Princess Chides Newspapermen

LONDON (UPI) —Princess Anne called newsmen "a touchy lot" Thursday but said she understands why they make her activities—even the embarrassing ones—page one news.

"You tend to be a rather touchy lot," said Queen Elizabeth's 22-year-old daughter in a speech at the Institute of Journalists.

"I would not dream of complaining about your behavior as you are only doing your jobs," she said. "Editors would kill you if they didn't get a picture of a story done properly."

Anne's remarks were directed mainly at photographers who complained recently that she was uncooperative with the press while participating in a horse show jumping competition.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key To Success Is To Develop Short Suit To Discard Losers

Life is full of little misfortunes. Your wife leaves you or your partner has the wrong void suit. If you are the kind of bridge player this column is proud of, you rise above the handicap of the wrong void suit. Tomorrow morning, if all goes well, you'll try to find out where your wife went.

South Pass West Pass North Pass East Pass

Opening lead - ♠ 8

A SHUTOUT BID

Dummy's jump to four spades was a sort of shutout bid, showing four or more trumps, with good distribution, and no more than nine points in high cards. In this case, as it happened, North had only six points in high cards. The idea is to get to game but to warn partner against bidding for a slam.

West opened the eight of spades, and South won with the jack. South wasn't overly fond of the dummy. The void was in the wrong red suit. The hand would be unbeatable if dummy had held four small hearts and no diamonds. As matters stood, South might lose two diamonds and two clubs.

SEES WAY OUT

After some thought, South saw a way to shape the dummy the way he wanted it to be. He led the ace of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, and then led the queen of hearts. West naturally played low, and South discarded a second diamond from dummy.

East took the king of hearts and led a diamond. South thereupon took the ace of diamonds and led the jack of hearts to discard dummy's last diamond.

Declarer next went after the clubs, losing dummy's king to East's ace. He had to lose two club tricks, but didn't lose a diamond and thus made his contract.

 COUNTRY SQUIRE
 $695

If you're looking for the cleanest, oldest, less-expensive station wagon in Marin County — see this one. We just took in trade from local doctor who has used this 9-passenger wagon strictly for a family wagon. The low mileage reflects the local driving that it's had by the lady of the house.

Fully equipped including factory air conditioning, automatic, radio, heater, V-8 engine, power steering and loads of other Country Squire extras.

Count your mileage per year and we'll bet it's a lot more than the 7,000 miles per year that this wagon has averaged. TKA 336

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL
Today is Friday, Nov. 24, the 325th day of 1972 with 39 days to follow.
The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Saturn and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Nov. 24, 1984
On this day in history:

In 1869, women from 21 states met in Cleveland to draw up plans for the organization of the American Women Suffrage Association.

In 1963, Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, was fatally shot by Jack Ruby in a Dallas jail. A thought for the day: Scottish poet Robert Gifford said, "There's a hope for every we and a balm for every pain, but the first joys in our heart never come back again."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, significant air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Researchers Turn Attention To Finding Arthritis Cause

The discovery of cortisone was the first breakthrough in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis (RA) since aspirin. Its effect was miraculous and Dr. Philip S. Hench of the Mayo Clinic was awarded a Nobel prize for his efforts. But during the next 10 years, cortisone proved to be only a 'temporary remedy. Today, many specialists in this field are using Indocin, surgery, aspirin, gold salts, rest, and physical therapy. In addition, the victim is taught how to live with the disease in order to minimize damaging his ailing joints.

REPLY

No. Your daughter works hard and is far from being lazy. She needs 10 hours of sleep to recharge her batteries. Marriage and a few children could change all of this.

CURE FOR APPENDICITIS
D. P. writes: Is there any other treatment or cure for appendicitis except operation?

REPLY

No, but infection can be controlled with antibiotics, such as penicillin or streptomycin, provided the organ has not ruptured or become gangrenous. Obviously, removal of the organ is the cure.

IT'S CONTAGIOUS
R. N. writes: You have said that tuberculosis is not inherited. Why then do insurance and other application forms ask if the parents had the disease?

REPLY

Because tuberculosis is a contagious disease and is easily passed from one member of the family to another.

REDNESS OF FACE
C. E. writes: Why does my face turn beet red when I walk in hot weather? This happens even when I'm not in the sun.

REPLY

The redness comes from blood that rushes to the surface of the skin. The reason this occurs to you and not to others may need further investigation. You may have a vascular disorder, allergy to the sun, high blood pressure, or your nervous system may be overly active.

TRIMMING LEGS
A reader writes: Will leg exercises take off inches or just make the limbs more muscular?

REPLY

Exercise will increase the muscle mass. But fat legs may get smaller if exercise is combined with a low caloric diet.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give up to 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you're in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend more than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Little Stir Over Drama On Abortion

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens when the 47-year-old lead character of a hit television series gets pregnant and decides to have an abortion?

It's no soap opera, but the CBS situation comedy "Maude."

In the first episode last week of the two-part show, Maude learns she is pregnant and considers an abortion. Her husband talks about having a vasectomy.

The final part was shown Tuesday night. She had the abortion.

"This is not a tidy Hollywood ending," said Norman Lear, the creator and executive producer.

The abortion is a first for prime-time television, and comes in a season when the medium is dealing more realistically with such issues as morality. The fictional setting for "Maude," incidentally, is New York, which has a liberalized abortion law.

Only two CBS stations, WCLM-TV in Champaign, Ill., and WMBD-TV in Peoria, Ill., have reported to have refused to carry the two-part show.

A third CBS affiliate, WKBN in Detroit, said at first it would not carry the abortion episode, but later decided to. It carried the first part.

The Champaign station said it received 500 calls about the cancellation last week. Of these, 400 protested the cancellation and 100 approved it.

A CBS spokesman here said mail response to the Maude show has been minimal. He said the telephone response to five CBS-owned stations has been small, and that the response to these stations is usually typical of reaction around the country.

Lear said that so far the show has caused only a ripple of protest and that most of the reaction has been favorable.

Lear, who also produces "All in the Family," said he wanted to do a show about a late-life pregnancy.

He said he realized there would be a controversy no matter which way he went after the star got pregnant.

"I think that's healthy," Lear said. "These things should be aired. No matter which side."

Lear said he thought station managers who refused to carry such topics were out of touch with their audience. "They don't understand their audience," he said. "They're much more intelligent than they think."

Minister Shot By Jobseeker Loses An Arm

NORTH AMITYVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — A Baptist minister who told a stranger he had no work for him was shot through the window of his home Thursday night. As a result, the minister's right arm was amputated today.

Suffolk County police said the Rev. Charles B. Potts, 49, was shot by an unknown man who fired a 12-gauge shotgun through the window of Potts' home.

The man knocked on Potts' door and said he was looking for work, police said. Potts, who did not open the door, replied that he had no job openings and walked from the door.

As the minister walked past a window, police said, the man fired, hitting Potts in the right arm.

Record Turnout For Chess Meet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Boosted by the chess boom, a world record number of players competed today in the annual American Open Chess Championship.

The tournament opened Thursday with 428 participants, the biggest turnout ever in a tournament in which all players are in a single section, organizers said.

The previous high was 402, set at the same tourney in Ventura, Calif., in 1971.

Publication Set Of Ginzburg Book

NEW YORK (UPI) — Publisher Ralph Ginzburg, former editor and publisher of Eros magazine, announced today that a book covering his experiences in prison would soon be published.

Ginzburg said the book, titled "Castration: My Eight Months In Prison," would be published by St. Martin's Press, and would be excerpted in the New York Times Magazine Dec. 3.

Still More Funding Is Needed For Mass Transit, Luehring Says

I-J Special Report
SAN FRANCISCO — Despite the federal government's belated interest in financing transit, the money it has promised still will fall far short of the need, the general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge District said today.

Dale W. Luehring, in a speech prepared for a Commonwealth Club luncheon at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, argued that transit can replace the need for more highway lanes and bridges — but only if it gets enough money.

He did not suggest how much would be enough, but said the present commitment of a billion dollars a year "will still finance only a fraction of the country's present needs, little of the future needs and most assuredly will not make the impact it must make."

He cautioned that "with one of the most powerful lobbies in the country, the highway establishment is in a position simply to run roughshod over mass transportation projects competing for limited, unearmarked funds."

Luehring, whose district has received almost $25 million in federal transit grants, observed that Americans "spend more time and money going nowhere than any other people."

Supporting transit "stacks up as a good investment," he declared, since it relieves traffic congestion and cuts air pollution.

"We can no longer afford the view that transit is a second class system for those who cannot afford to go by private automobile," Luehring said.

Bando In Business In San Rafael Office

Sal Bando, captain of the world champion Oakland A's, stopped off at a San Rafael Lions Club luncheon meeting Wednesday during a break in his office routine at the nearby Albert Building.

Bando, you see, is in partnership with Charles (Chuck) McGranaghan in a financial management consulting business aptly named, "Bando-McGranaghan Associates," and the office for the time being is in the San Rafael office building at 1010 B Street.

Most ball players these days are involved in some kind of outside business and since Sal was an economics major at Arizona State College it's only fitting he go into the business of helping people handle their money.

INSTEAD OF GOING through the A's office, persons or or groups who want to hire some of the A's players for personal appearances or endorsements can call McGranaghan's office. I have the feeling he puts in more office time than Bando, but then again he doesn't have to go out and play third base during the baseball season.

There is a good possibility they will move shop to either Oakland or San Francisco if business grows. Although McGranaghan does the financial management for some of the A's players, he does not do any contract bargaining as an agent, so won't come face-to-face with Charles O. Finley.

Bando told the assembled Lions that he didn't feel that much different now that he was a member of a world champion baseball team, "But I do feel $20,000 richer."

A VERY CANDID MAN, Bando talked about the good and bad parts of baseball and the ever present thought of being traded. Even a team captain is not exempt and he said he had read of reports that hinted of a possible Bando trade to the Dodgers.

But, said Bando, Vida Blue would not go on the trading block. "I don't think he'll ever get traded from the A's. I think he will be the best pitcher in baseball," said Sal, adding, "Maturity is what he needs."

Sal had nothing but praise for A's skipper Dick Williams, saying he had the ability to run 25 individual men. All managers have the technical part of baseball down pat, said Bando, but the really good managers are the ones who can handle players as individuals.

ASKED HIS BIGGEST World Series thrill, Bando said it was "just being there for that first World Series game. I was so used to always seeing the series on television."

Bando criticized baseball's management by saying, "The owners are so money hungry they are hurting the game." He said there were too many games and too many ball players in the major leagues and this is not good for baseball. But when asked if he saw another strike looming in the '73 season, Sal said no.

When a question came up concerning Gaylord Perry, former Giant who won the Cy Young award for Cleveland this year, Bando smiled broadly and said, "He definitely throws a spitter. It's Vaseline and he just rubs it off when the umpires go out to check him."

In discussing Finley, Bando said he had nothing but respect for the A's owner, and used words such as "unique" and "genius" in talking about the self-made millionaire. Bando is no dummy. He knows Finley is not a man you cross, especially in public.

AFTER THAT exciting win by the 49ers yesterday over Dallas I imagine the Goal Rushers boosters group will really be in a celebrating mood Monday when they meet at noon, Holiday Inn. They were still trying to get a 49er guest today but things didn't look too promising. Because of the odd scheduling which has 10 days between yesterday's Cowboys' contest and the Monday night (Dec. 4) Rams' game, next Monday will not be an off day for the players as it usually is following Sunday games.

Ashe Wins In Rome Net; Lutz To Play Tomorrow

ROME (UPI)—Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., defeated burly Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia, 7-6, 6-1, Thursday night to gain the semifinals of the $50,000 winter world tennis championship.

Earlier in the day, Tom Okker of the Netherlands staved off three match points in the second set to come back and beat Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 7-6, 6-4 on the fast synthetic green grass of Rome's Palazzo dello Sport.

Ashe faces Okker in one of the semifinal matches on Saturday and Bob Lutz of Tiburon meets Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in the other.

Ashe, 28, started slowly, his powerful backhand missing more often than not, as Pilić capitalized on his own cannonball services.

Neither of the men was able to break serve until the tie-break, which Ashe convincingly won 7-1, rushing the net hard and slamming away Pilić's weak and short lobs.

Ashe took the lead in the second set and then broke the tall, 33-year-old Yugoslav's serve for the first time to make it 3-1. From then Ashe, in baby blue shorts, never looked back, keeping Pilić, the only player to wear all white tennis clothes, constantly off balance and away from the net.

Ashe, the leading moneymaker of the four semifinalists, will earn $25,000 if he wins, giving him more than $100,000 for the year, second only to Ken Rosewall of Australia, who is not competing in the first winter professional finals because he has not played in enough of the preliminary WCT tournaments.

Okker, whom Ashe faces in one of the semifinal matches, said he "was a little surprised" about pulling out his match against Riessen, who said: "I never make excuses."

Marin In Season Opener

Like a chef, College of Marin basketball coach John Panagakis will be experimenting with different combinations of ingredients tonight when his Tars open their 1972-73 season in Kentfield against College of San Mateo.

The varsity will play at 8 o'clock, following a junior varsity game at 6 against Lincoln High School of San Francisco.

"We'd like to play 'em all early in the year," said Panagakis, who realizes he needs to substitute freely to fuel the running game he has installed this season.

Only two members of last season's 25-4 team will be in the starting lineup tonight — 6-foot-3 guard Joe DeMaestri and 6-4 forward Joe Casteel. Two freshmen will start — 6-3 guard Leonard Smith and 6-4 Will Garner.

At center will be 6-7 John Crozier, who played two years ago for Novato High but didn't play for the Tars last year although attending College of Marin. "He's looked good in practice," said Panagakis. "Neil Traub (6-8) is coming off an injury and Dana La Ferriere (also 6-8) is still learning the system, but they'll both play a lot, too."

The abundance of height in the pivot and the presence of good jumpers at forward is what motivated Panagakis to install the running game. "With the rebound power we have, I feel we can run more," he said.

"I don't know much about San Mateo," the coach continued. "It's the first game for both of us. From all reports they're improved over last year, when they won only about five games."

Erickson In Heritage Golf Lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—If Bob Erickson were as vague about his golf scores as he is about his age, his playing partners would have a tough time adding up his strokes.

"I'm 39, no make that 41," said Erickson, who is listed as going on 47 in the PGA record book, when he showed up late in the press room Thursday to tell how he grabbed the first round lead in the Heritage Classic.

But there was no miscounting that 5-under-par 66 Erickson shot to go into today's second round of this $125,000 tournament one stroke ahead of young Jack Lewis and two ahead of nine others — including Lon Hinkle who is making his first appearance as a professional golfer.

OCEAN COURSE

There were 16 under-70 rounds Thursday; but all were made on the Ocean Course and the leaders today must play the tougher Harbortown Course where Bobby Nichols' 1-under-par 70 was the only sub-par score posted out of 78 tries.

"I don't think there is any doubt that the Harbortown Course is three or four strokes tougher than the Ocean Course," said Lewis, a native South Carolinian who has played many a round on this resort island.

Erickson, who has finished no higher than a tie for 20th on this year's PGA tour, had six birdies Thursday, three on each side and the bogey he took on the 465-yard fourth hole is misleading since par there was changed from 5 to 4 so Ocean and Harbortown would both be par 71s.

Both courses are being used again today to enable the huge, 156-man field to finish before dark. But the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be played only at Harbortown.

IRWIN - 74

Defending champion Hale Irwin, who predicted scores would be lower here this year than last when his 5-under-par four-day total won by a stroke, failed to take advantage of his prediction Thursday. Irwin shot a 74.

Bob Goalby, who won here two years ago had a 72, but Arnold Palmer, who won the initial heritage classic in 1969, did not show up this year and neither did the top two money winners on this year's tour, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

A HIGH HILL — Dallas Cowboys' Calvin Hill leaped over San Francisco's Skip Vanderbunt but Earl Edwards (74) stopped him

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Ohio State Likes Oklahoma's Idea

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Oklahoma would be the first to agree in the adage "turnabout is fair play" and Ohio State hopes to second the motion on the final big weekend of the college football season.

The Sooners, 35-31 losers to Nebraska last Thanksgiving Day in a game that cost them not only the Big Eight title but also a possible national championship, waited a year for revenge and how sweet it was as Oklahoma rallied from a 14-0 deficit to beat the fifth ranked Cornhuskers 17-14 Thursday.

While the triumph isn't likely to give fourth ranked Oklahoma the national title this season, the win did make the Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners heavy favorites to capture their first Big Eight crown since 1968. Oklahoma needs only a win over Oklahoma State on Dec. 2 for the league championship.

Ohio State gets its chance to erase partially the memories of a bitter ending to the 1971 campaign Saturday when the eighth ranked and once beaten Buckeyes entertain unbeaten and third ranked Michigan for the Big Ten title. A trip to the Rose Bowl and the league championship were also up for grabs one year ago at Ann Arbor, Mich., when the two teams met with the Wolverines coming away with a hotly disputed 10-7 verdict.

Texas prepped for its Cotton

Bowl meeting against second ranked Alabama with an easy Thanksgiving Night 38-3 decision over Texas A&M while in other holiday action, Utah State beat Weber State 20-16, Quantico shut out Xavier 34-0, C.W. Post walloped Hofstra 54-6, Central Washington downed Portland State 32-17 and Texas Southern beat Prairie View A&M 13-0.

Until midway through the third quarter, it hardly appeared the Sooners were the better team as they fumbled twice on punt returns to set up both Nebraska touchdowns. Ironically, it was a Husker fumble that led to Oklahoma's winning field goal, a 41-yard boot by Rich Fulcher midway through the final quarter.

The sixth-ranked Longhorns finished the regular campaign with a 9-1 record following their win over Texas A&M. Quarterback Alan Lowry, a converted defensive back, continued to impress by running for two touchdowns and passing for another against the outmanned Aggies. The only blot on the Southwest Conference champion's record was a 27-0 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma.

In addition to the Big Ten, other conference titles to be decided Saturday include the Ivy League, Western Athletic and Missouri Valley.

Chance To Play Seals Good Therapy For Orr

BOSTON (UPI)—Don't try to tell the California Golden Seals there's anything wrong with Bobby Orr.

Out most of the season with a bad knee, Orr has bounced back with a bang. He scored his third and fourth goals of the season off Seals netminder Gilles Meloche Thursday night to help the Boston Bruins win 4-2.

After Greg Sheppard scored for the Bruins in the first period, defenseman Bert Marshall evened the score when he drove home a 40-footer from the blue line with the Bruins one man short. Orr put the Bruins ahead to stay at 15:17 of the opening period when he powered a shot past Meloche from 35 feet out on a power play.

Orr got his second goal in the middle period, taking a pass from Phil Esposito and sending a low screamer home at 13:16.

The teams traded goals in the final period with former Bruin Rick Smith scoring for the Seals and Mike Walton for the Bruins.

Awesome Third Quarter In S.F. 31-10 Triumph

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — For a span of seven minutes in the third quarter Thursday the San Francisco Forty Niners handled the world champion Dallas Cowboys like they were only champions of their block, and in that period of time, Tom Landry saw something he recognized.

He saw very clearly the things being displayed which must be done to win the Super Bowl. But it was not his team doing the work.

"San Francisco was just superb in the third period," Landry said after his Cowboys had been humiliated by San Francisco 31-10. "When they took the kickoff and drove it down there for a score, that said what the game was all about. We did it in the Bowl against Miami."

"Teams do that when they want it bad. They were running tough and hard and they just took it to us in the third quarter. They were running harder and more determined and you could see the momentum on their bench."

"They just wanted it worse than we did."

And Forty Niner Coach Dick Nolan saw some of the same thing.

"They have beaten us before in two conference championships," he said, referring to the past two seasons. "This shows we can beat them when we both have the same personnel as before."

The Dallas loss was its first ever in the regular or post season at Texas Stadium, the Cowboys having won 10 games before Thursday. And it was Dallas' first loss ever on Thanksgiving in this their seventh straight holiday contest. It was also Nolan's first victory over Landry since Nolan left Dallas to coach San Francisco.

The Cowboys and Forty Niners had played three times previously with Nolan as head coach.

game ahead of Los Angeles in the NFC West with the victory and Dallas fell to a game and a half behind Washington in the NFC East.

Until the crucial third period, in which Dallas ran only six plays, San Francisco held a shaky 14-10 lead and that bulge was gained in a very freakish manner.

Dallas jumped out front on a seven-yard run by Walt Garrison, and was threatening to make it more when quarterback Craig Morton went back to throw from the 49ers' 19-yard line.

Morton was hit on his blind side by Dave Wilcox and line

Lions Win, Remain On Heels Of 'Pack'

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Lions think they can win the title in the Central Division of the National Football Conference and nothing that happened Thursday dissuaded them.

The Lions moved within a half-game of division leader Green Bay, rolling behind the running and passing of quarterback Greg Landry to a 37-20 victory over the New York Jets.

Since Green Bay must play Washington Sunday, it's not inconceivable the Lions and Packers might be tied for the lead when they meet Dec. 2 at Green Bay.

"We've got to beat them or else forget it," said Landry, who scored two touchdowns, passed for another and produced 166 yards total offense.

"But it's a funny thing about the Lions," he added. "We seem to play better when our backs are to the wall. When we have to win, we win."

The setback for the Jets left them with a 6-5 record and slim hopes of earning the "wild card" playoff spot in the AFC. They are four and a half games behind the unbeaten Miami Dolphins, who already have clinched first place in the AFC East.

Coach Joe Schmidt said he would not start thinking about the Packers until Monday.

"I'm going to give the guys three days off," Schmidt said.

Landry scored on runs of one and six yards and hit Larry Walton with a 34-yard touchdown pass while Altie Taylor scored on a 38-yard run with 1:49 to go for the final Detroit touchdown. Errol Mann kicked three field goals, including a 37-yarder to snap a 20-20 tie in the fourth quarter.

Joe Namath rallied the Jets from an early deficit to tie the game in the final minute of the third period on a 33-yard scoring pass to tight end Rich Caster.

But after Mann kicked his go-ahead field goal, tough running back John Riggins of the Jets was injured on the next play and the New York attack bogged down.

Namath said, "I don't feel I'm as sharp as I was a few years ago. The years off hurt."

Namath passed for 165 yards but completed only 9-of-22. Seven of the completions and 102 of the yards came in the third quarter, when he threw 15 times.

Three runners gained more than 100 yards, headed by the 123 Taylor compiled in 15 carries. Clifford McClain had 121 in 10 carries for the Jets and Riggins had 105 in 24 attempts, including a one-yard touchdown run.

Raider Coach Fears Chiefs' Kicking Game

OAKLAND (UPI) — Kansas City coach Hank Stram thinks his squad will have to "climb" out of its "hole" but Oakland coach John Madden figures the Chiefs might kick their way out.

"We can't lose another game and we have to hope for help from other clubs," Stram said before Sunday's meeting between the two teams.

"We can't blame anyone. We put ourselves in the hole and now we have to climb out of it," he said.

Madden had high praise for Kansas City field goal kicker Jan Stenerud and punter Jerrell Wilson.

"Great kicking like that makes everything easier for a team," he said.

FISH AND GAME

Trip To Hawaii—
Fisherman's Prize

By AL GIDDINGS

I better mention that Stanley Budd of Fremont was winner of the Golden Gate Sportfisher's Salmon Derby which ended with the salmon season closure on Nov. 12. His fish, a 44-pound, 8-ounce salmon, was caught Oct. 7 while fishing from the party boat, "Lucky Lady." He won as first prize, two airplane tickets to Hawaii with a stay for a week including meals at the Mauna Kea Hotel.

I should also mention that the deer take figures for Marin County came to 257 bucks for the 1972 season. At one time, Marin County had a take of over 1,000 bucks for a season. At that time there were about 110 clubs in the county. Today, with much of the area being closed as State Parks, National Seashores and extended city limit lines, there are about 25 clubs left.

The average take per club, county-wide, has always been about 10 bucks. Last year the buck take in Marin was 338. These figures are in accordance with the deer tag returns. Napa, Lake and Mendocino counties also had slightly lower takes than last year.

SEVERAL MONTHS ago, I mentioned that seven people had been arrested for taking over 100 abalones along the Sonoma Coast. They were released on $10,500 bail at the time. Five of the seven have recently appeared in court where they entered guilty pleas.

They were each fined $500. They are restricted to using their angling licenses only in fresh water, and they were given six months suspended jail sentences and are now on three years probation. The other two defendants are scheduled to appear before the court in the near future.

DO YOU REMEMBER the albino fish that Jim Sturgis of Santa Venetia caught a few months ago. Jim gave it to me, and I forwarded it to the California Academy of Sciences to Bill Follett, curator emeritus of Ichthyology there. I received this letter: "We are most pleased to have this unusual specimen. So far as I have found, it represents the first record of albinism in this species. I am preparing a manuscript regarding this specimen." Jim Sturgis won't win a trip to Hawaii but he will get the credit for catching the first albino leopard shark on record. Doggone it, he'll probably be remembered forever.

Practice Game At Sonoma State

A dress rehearsal for the 1972-73 California State College, Sonoma, basketball team will take place tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Rohnert Park school's gym.

The game will pit the Cossack varsity team, coached by William Trumbo, against the recently formed junior varsity squad, coached by Fred Sion. Admission is free.

LOCALLY, THE striper and sturgeon fisheries has been on the slow side with the rains and wind making things tough. This is temporary. Big rain years wash out the delta and put the food for these fish in San Pablo Bay.

This year should be a top sturgeon year, and the time to start fishing is now. The predicted hot spots will be the flats off Hamilton Field, the Pump-house area, the H.R. Buoy, Richmond Bridge and the areas off Paradise Park Pier and Paradise Cay. I can't wait to get out there. Use 4/0 to 6/0 hooks on a sliding sinker. For bass, bullheads are the bait and for sturgeon, best bets are grass shrimp and ghost shrimp.

WATERFOWL populations in California have zoomed past the 5.5 million mark, up sharply from numbers two weeks ago, and exceeding those for last year at this time. The waterfowl populations included 4,599,000 ducks and 967,810 geese. A total of 3,196,305 of the ducks were sprig. A large share of the ducks and geese were found on the Tule Lake and Lower Klamath Refuges, the Department of Fish and Game said.

Salmon and steelhead fishing at White House Pool on Paper Mill Creek has been fair, but here's some good news. The California Wildlife Conservation Board on Nov. 13 approved the purchase of land in the Tomales Bay area near Point Reyes Station which consists of a 482-acre ecological area of tidal flats and freshwater marsh, a 21-acre strip of fishing access along one side of upper Tomales Bay, and a 13-acre fishing access at Whitehouse Pool on Papermill Creek.

THE PHEASANT season opened with most hunters finding the birds scarce. The average take, my guess, was one bird for every 10 persons.

One bit of bad news I just received. That famous Labrador called "Smoker," owned by Bob Lochinauer of San Anselmo, and a great pal to all of us at the Loch Lomond Boat Harbor, died this week. He will be missed by all of us, and I know that Bob and his wife are in the doldrums.

Suns Win As Scott Scores 42

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL
Charlie Scott made sure the Phoenix Suns' losing streak would go not longer Thursday night.

Scott scored 42 points, including 12 during a 43-point third period that enabled the Suns to come from behind and beat the Detroit Pistons 128-122. The victory snapped a five-game Suns' losing streak.

Connie Hawkins, who had 19 points, got eight during the third-period spurge. Hawkins added 11 assists and seven rebounds. Curtis Rowe led the Pistons with 26 points and Bob Lanier hit 22.

Detroit's largest lead was 10 points with 7:22 remaining in the first half but Hawkins and Gus Johnson sparked a rally which saw Phoenix close the gap to 58-56 at intermission.

The Suns went ahead to stay on two free throws by Scott with 9:36 left in the third quarter. The closest Detroit came after that was five points in the closing seconds.

In the only other NBA game, Walt Bellamy and Jim Washington had their highest scoring night of the season to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 110-97 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics. Bellamy scored 33 points and Washington hit 21 for the Hawks. Lou Hudson and George Trapp had 18 apiece and Pete Maravich 14.

Warriors Face Bulls In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPD)—After eating their Thanksgiving turkey near the Loop, the Golden State Warriors are ready to do battle tonight with the Chicago Bulls.

Coming off their worst loss of the season, 132-104, to Houston Wednesday night, the Warriors run into the first-place team in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association. Chicago leads Milwaukee by half a game.

"The Bulls are tough," said Warrior guard Jeff Mullins. "They're physical and they climb all over you for rebounds. We've got to be ready and we've got to run."

Mullins also said he was disappointed in the Warriors and in himself for going to sleep on defense against the weaker teams in the NBA such as Portland and Houston.

"We just keep having peaks and valleys," he said. "If we play defense, then we'll never get too far back even if we're not shooting. But if we stop playing defense, we get down by 12 or 15."

Boat Racing

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. — Harold Eis of Topeka, Kan., favored for this weekend's $50,000 Pepsi-Cola Outboard World Championship race, suffered a mild concussion yesterday when his boat flipped over during a 100-mile-an-hour practice sprint. Eis was reported in good condition but his boat was destroyed.

Football

PITTSBURGH — Slippery Rock State College (8-1) meets unbeaten Bridgeport University (10-0) tonight in the Knute Rockne Bowl, to be played indoors at Convention Hall in Atlantic City, N.J.

Golf

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Australians Ian Stanley and Brian Smith shot four-under-par 67s to take the first-round lead in the New Zealand Open Championship.

LA ROMONA, Dominican Republic — Spain's Jose "Pepe" Gancedo and Roman Taya took the second-round lead in the Americas Cup Championship with a five-under-par 67 over the difficult Cajules course.

Bowling

CHICAGO — Defending champion Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio, clung to first place by the narrow margin of 25 pins after winning three of eight match games in the $85,000 Brunswick World Open Tournament.

49ERS

backer Skip Vanderbunt picked up the loose ball and ran 73 yards for the tying score. Until then San Francisco had gained only 31 yards and Dallas had gained 159.

The only other San Francisco first half touchdown—a one yard plunge by Ken Willard—was set up by an interception of Morton by Bruce Taylor.

Those breaks took up a lot of conversation after the game, but Landry kept harking back to that third period.

"It was just unbelievable the way they made those third down plays (four of four during the drive)," Landry said.

The drive ended on a third down play—a 12-yard pass from Steve Spurrier to Ted Kwalick which made it 21-10. From there on it was just a matter of letting the Forty Niner defense enjoy itself, which it did by trapping Dallas quarterbacks nine times for 66 yards in losses.

And Vanderbunt got to enjoy himself a little more by intercepting a Morton pass and running it back 21 yards for the final score of the game.

"It was the first time I've ever scored two touchdowns in one game in my life and it feels great," said the four-year veteran from Oregon State.

"On the fumble recovery I was supposed to blitz by myself but Wilcox got fouled up and came in also. He got the hit, the ball took one bounce and there it was. I just scooped it up and ran."

San Francisco cornerback Jim Johnson suffered a knee sprain and had to be carried from the field. It was not known immediately how long he will be sidelined.
